. . . and a mosaic of Ripplife.

As the "key to knowledge," a wide scope of reading is an important phase of academic life for George Robinson.

Representative of the entire student body, cheerleaders display a proud American patriotism in pre-game activities.

Ignoring the rain, football fans Leslie Stephens and Libbie DeMars buy hot chocolate from Mrs. Louise Bicknell.

Daily lunch periods serve as welcome relief from the tension of classroom study for Cindy New and John Kratz.

Quietly reflected in the placid waters of the canal, the lights of Broad Ripple Village glow in the distance.

His face emphasizing the importance of the game, Football Coach Bob Brown outlines a new play to fullback Ken Castor.

A mosaic of Ripplife . . .

Ripplife is a teenage world—a kaleidoscope of activity. Centered around the rewarding but often difficult search for knowledge, a Ripplite's world spans the wide gap between the carefree fun of childhood and the responsibilities of adulthood.

Ripplife is a school—an edifice as familiar as an old friend. Creaking floors of Study Hall 322, dim lights of the deserted auditorium, 779 stairsteps in a complex architecture, strong sulfur odors from the chemistry labs, mass confusion in the new cafeteria, and still loneliness in the halls hours after school reveal her personality to Ripplites who center their worlds here for four years of their teen lives.

Ripplife is a search for knowledge—not only in the familiar "40 minutes per subject" of homework every night—not only in theme-writing, test-taking, and text-studying, but also in an individual quest for Truth . . . a beginning attempt at self-discovery. Friendships often lead to "bull sessions" and serious discussions as the pupil examines his purpose in life, his beliefs, and his ideals. In knowledge and in maturity, a Ripplite grows through Ripplife.

Ripplife is the good times of youth—a social whirl of events contrasting sharply to the seriousness of academic study. Homecoming, the Riparian Dance, and the Prom highlight a social season which includes many informal dances, games, and extra-curricular activities. As the year ends with a flurry of Graduation activities, Ripplites look to a new and different world of the future, taking with them memories

. . . a school . . . a search for knowledge . . . social activity . . . friendships . . . a teenager's world at Broad Ripple High School includes these "pieces" of life and many more. His world is a mosaic of Ripplife.

Breaking glass into myriad uniform pieces, John Pock performs an essential step in the construction of the mosaic.

As a favorite teacher, a difficult subject, and a glimmer of understanding make Ripple an outstanding educational institution, so a fragment of an old mirror, a piece of broken glass, and a ray of sunlight make Ripple's Fine Arts Mosaic a beautiful landmark and excellent representation of pupil artistic talent. Effort and ability have made Ripple an outstanding school; time and patient work have made the mosaic a treasured symbol of Ripplife. Employing an ancient art originated by the Egyptians and perfected in the early Roman civilization, Ripple's Advanced Art class designed and assembled the mural from discarded pottery, colorful glass bottles, broken mirrors, and commercial tiles. The myriad pieces, broken into uniform sizes and carefully cleaned and polished, were individually glued onto a large, masonite framed design created by '63 grad Sally McCreary in her Advanced Art class. In March of 1963, after nearly two years of patient, perseverant work, the Art Department presented the finished mosaic to the school. Now hanging in the Auditorium lobby, the mural reflects both in design and in meaning the very essence of Ripplife itself.

Created by the imagery of youth . . .

reflecting experience

Making a composite of three sketches, Sally Ulrich, Jackie Gold, and Miss Doris Brinkman discuss the mosaic's design.

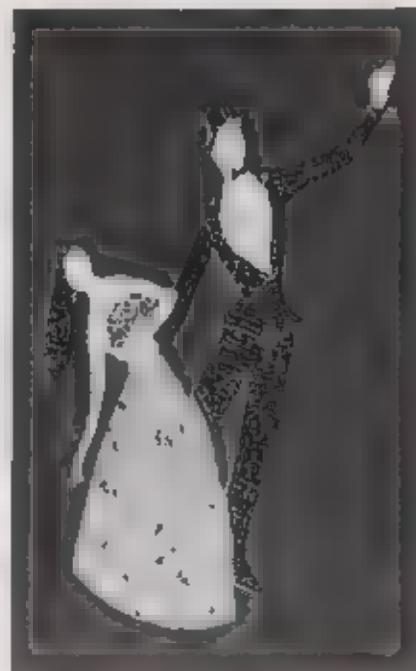

Pupil and teacher alike give careful, precise attention to gluing each individual tile into a large masonite frame designed by Mr. John Perry and built by Mr. Virgel Clark.

Adding finishing touches to the colorful mural. Mr. Clark prepares it for hanging in the Auditorium Lobby.

the vivaciousness of youth is Ripplife

Enjoying fun, food, and friendship at the Fathers' Association Fish Fry, Jerry Johnson discusses the outlook of the prospective football game.

Conner Prairie Farm carries history into the present for historians John Kratz, Suzanne Barnes, and Kitzi Haycox.

Knickers and an armful of luggage take AFSeCer Jim Cooney back to a summer of learning and fun in Graz, Austria.

Sharing responsibilities, Gay and Sandi find domestic chores "easier" with a sister to help in the kitchen.

English imports

Celebrating her eighteenth birthday, Gay and her American family, Mr. John O. Servaas, Sandi, and Mrs. Servaas, enjoy a birthday cake with a British 'Beatle' flavor.

Dampened weather but undaunted spirits prevail at Gay's first gridiron game with friends Judy Hulen, Sara Compton, and "sister" Sandi Servaas.

include Beatles, AFSer Gay Brereton

Sporting a knowledge of British dialects from Cockney to Scouse, an admiration of England from John Bull to the Beatles, and an enthusiasm for debates from American politics to French economy, "Matey" Gay Brereton joined Ripplites as American Field Service Exchange Student from London, England.

Student Council, Golden Singers, Junior Historical Society, and National Honor Society filled much of Gay's time, yet she saw the Beatles for her first time at the Indiana State Fair and often skied or swam on weekends at her American family's cottage at Wawasee.

Gay's "sister," Sandi Servaas, was one of five Ripplites to participate in summer programs abroad. Sandi, Anita Hyer, and Nancy Wright found Mexico "a land of heat and siestas" during their six-week stay at Monterrey on the Indiana University Honors Program. Honors Student Carol Boyer enjoyed eating "patisserie" atop the Eiffel Tower during her stay with the Boutiers of St. Brieuc, France. AFSer Jim Cooney traveled to Austria for a summer of study and good food with the Helzel and Rack families.

Comparing notes on summer experiences, IU Honors Students Nancy Wright, Carol Boyer, Anita Hyer, and Sandi Servaas discuss Mexican and French customs.

Flurried Homecoming preparations

Homecoming Queen Finalists
Anne Brassford, Sandy Laramore, Cherie Smeltzer, and Susie Frakes surround Queen Jill Young, who reigned over festivities at the Ripple-North Central game.

Flanked by Football Captains Rick Lee and Mike Perry, Linda Wilson represents Ripple as Jamboree Queen for the September all-city opening game.

Homecoming Chairman Sandy Laramore outlines the week's schedule as one of her responsibilities for the pageantry.

open social season

In piles of napkins, yards of chicken wire, and buckets of paint, Ripple's 1964 social season opened weeks before the school year actually began. An especially early homecoming forced clubs to meet in late summer to plan their float entries. After interrupting float work just long enough to kick off the sports season with the City Football Jamboree, Rippelites plunged enthusiastically into a gay homecoming week climaxed by a victory over North Central and the Student Council's annual pageantry, pep session, parade, mum sales, and dance, "Autumn Atmosphere."

Football games, informal dances, and parties followed homecoming. Somehow, between academic and extra-curricular work, Rippelites found time to plan and support the events. In November, amidst the giant candy canes and ice cream cones of the Riparian Dance, "Candyland," Susie Frakes and Marty Zohn reigned as Miss and Mr. Riparian. One week later, on Friday the 13th, the Association of Parents and Teachers sponsored the annual fall carnival, featuring a hootenanny, style show, sock hop, football films, and club-sponsored booths. Basketball, holidays, and spring festivities carried the social tide until late April. In an enthusiastic climax, the Fathers' Association Joe and Jane Dance, the Prom, graduation ceremonies, and the Grad Dance closed the '64-'65 social calendar.

Riparian Royalty Susie Frakes and Marty Zohn reign at the "Candyland Ball" following their intermission crowning.

"A taffy apple for a vote!" plead candidates for Priscilla Mullins and John Alden at the APT Carnival in November. Susan Negley and Tom Olvey were elected by popular vote.

Trapped between deceit and love, Jim Dickson considers Milsford Robinson's scheme for robbery and Terri Kelly's pleas to "settle down."

At the early summer clambake, Susie Grosvenor stirs a kettle of clam chowder for her hungry sailor admirer.

Music talents form

Spinning with splashes of bright color, gay music, and merry dance, yet tinged with the sorrow of dark tragedy, Carousel, Golden Singers' 1964 musical production, opened a two-night performance November 20. As the curtain rose, a pantomime of a 19th century carnival brought the salty, romantic atmosphere of a sea village to Ripple's stage. Carousel "barker" Billy Bigelow, portrayed by Jim Dickson, falls in love with and marries Julie Jordan, played by Terri Kelly. As Julie's friend, Carrie Piperidge, Linda Stenberg provides a light touch in her flighty attentions to Tom Love, as the stout, sophisticated Enoch Snow. When Billy learns that Julie is to have a baby, he plans a robbery to get money for the child and is killed. The story floats into fantasy as Billy returns to earth to give a star of happiness to Julie and his daughter. Finally, the entire cast adds the moving lyrics of "You'll Never Walk Alone" to Billy's advice.

Directed by Mr. Gene Poston and Mrs. Rosalee Hofmann, Carousel marked the Music Department's fifth successful musical. Assisting were the Art Department, Mrs. Janet Blocker, and accompanist Anita Heppner.

Star-crossed. Tom Love and Linda Stenberg dream of their future together in the little fishing village.

multi-colored Carousel of melody, mood

A gay, festive atmosphere pervades Ripple's stage during the full-cast prologue scene of Carousel as the Golden Singers open with a pantomime of a 19th century carnival.

Academics

A thorough college preparatory curriculum, hours of nightly study, and nine daily periods of instruction form the familiar routine of Ripple's academic life. Not only a part, but the very foundation of Ripple life, academic work stimulates growth in knowledge, wisdom, and maturity through stiff scholastic standards and a firm pupil-faculty relationship.

Explaining her Derivatives project, Andy Ogle defines words having the root "ornith," meaning "bird."

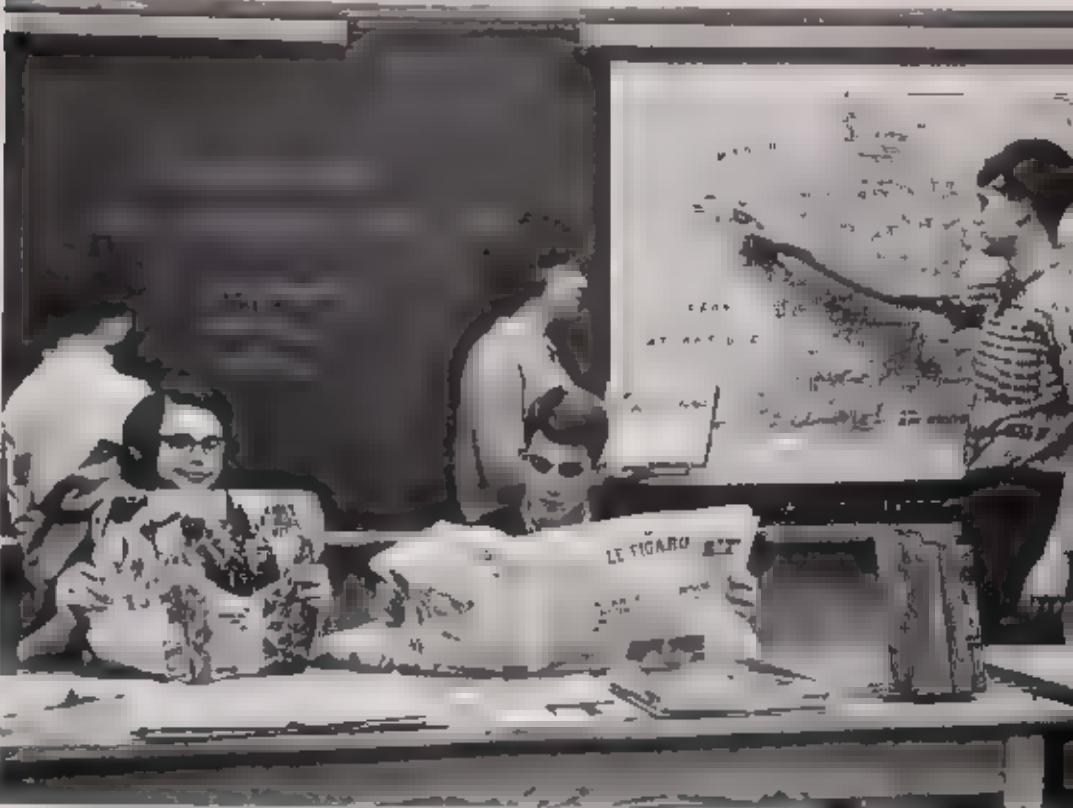

Language studies

Combining financing and journalism, Tom Gavin composes a Roperian manual for his English Vg term project.

Complementing language skills with cultural knowledge, French pupils study the people and customs of France.

strengthen international understandings

Exhibiting the results of out-of-class research in culture and translation technique, Rob Davis, Melvyn Goldberg, and Marion Sigurdson explain their German term projects.

In a society where international relations are ever more important, communications through language provide a firm link of understanding between America and her oversea neighbors. Studies in foreign languages weaken barriers of misunderstanding, while English courses strengthen American education by improving skills of expression in her native tongue.

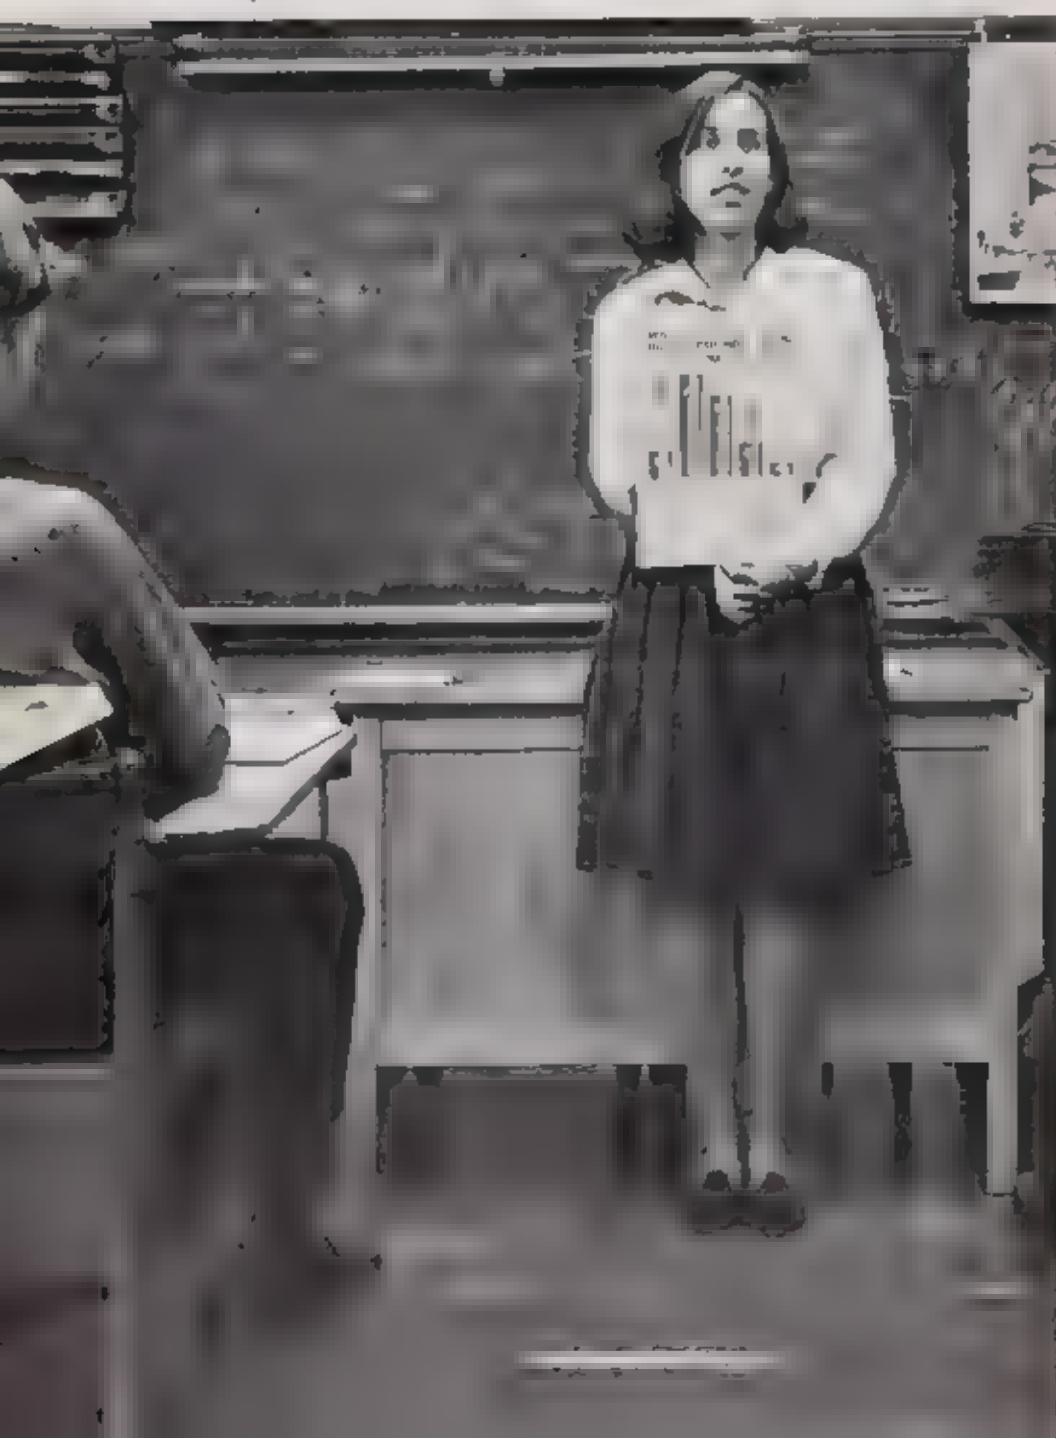

Taking "trips" around the world by picture or tasting German "kuchen," pupils of French, German, and Spanish gain knowledge of foreign cultures as well as languages. Since the modern approach to language study emphasizes conversational ability, pupils spend a portion of their class time in the "language lab" repeating taped drills. Studying novels and editing newspapers in the language provide practice in comprehension and composition skills. Necessarily, the study of Latin, as the only unspoken language, employs the translation approach.

Fundamental studies in composition, literature, vocabulary, and grammar are stressed in English I through VI. Further study in English VII, VIII, and X concentrates on composition skills and English literary heritage. Presenting their views on Maugham's Of Human Bondage, a panel of advanced pupils initiated Ripple's participation of "Youth Looks at Literature," a new television program presenting informal discussions from the city's schools. Derivatives, Speech, and journalism courses broaden the curriculum through studies of the origin and uses of English.

Transporting geography classmates to foreign shores. Charles Steen locates a remote country on the map with the aid of the Social Studies Department's opaque projector.

"Straight from the horse's mouth," AFser Gay Brereton explains her native monetary system to an Economics class.

Historic concepts

The door to Ripple's Social Studies Department leads to the crossroads of humanity. Pupil travelers upon these roads may choose to walk the dark, winding path of history or stumble along the unsure ground of today's complex society.

Beginning their study on the first page of recorded history and bringing the timetable up to date, pupils of world history link knowledge of the past to the reality of the present. Delving into one factor which dictated the growth of history, pupils of geography learn the effect of the terrain of a country upon its social and economic development. To promote a general understanding and appreciation of our country, United States history acquaints pupils with America's heroic beginning, her political, social, and economic backgrounds, and her hope of a prosperous future through democracy. Having explored the scope of United States history, pupils may gain a better understanding of the nation's operation, economy, and foreign policy through Government, Economics, and International Relations.

In search of a further solution to the problems which have faced humanity since the beginning of time, Psychology classes investigate the effects of man's complex mental processes on society's development.

Hoosier State delegates Keith Jackson, Anne Bradford Dean, Craft, and Penny Gilbert campaign in mock elections.

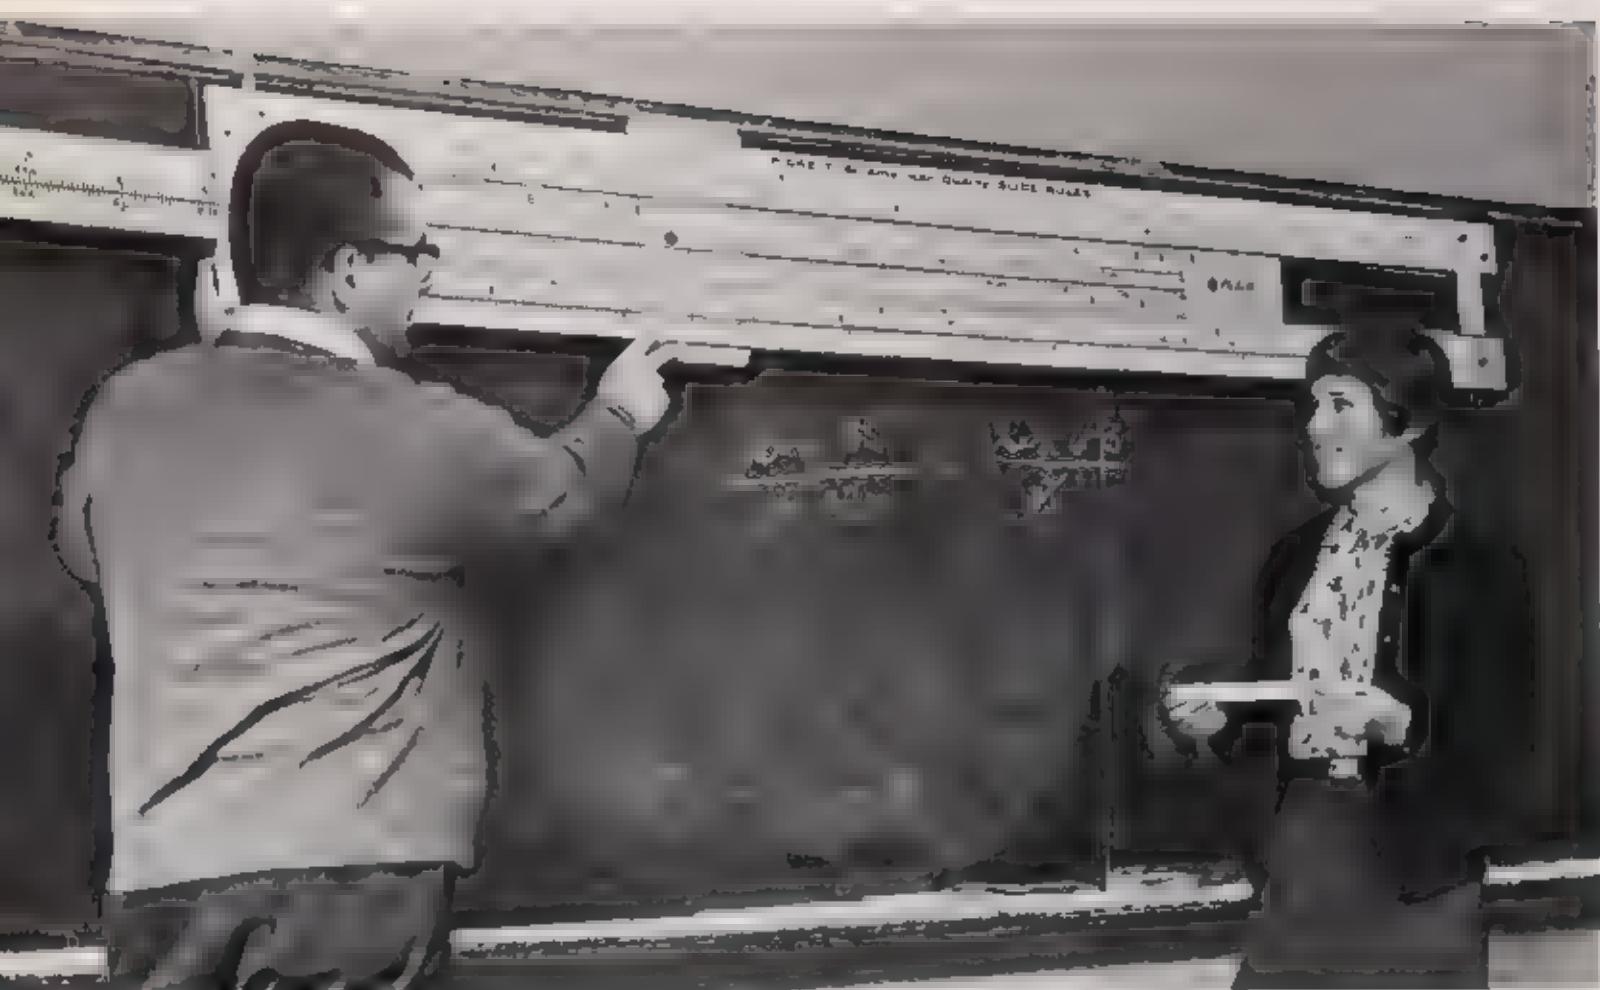

Seeking references for his history term paper, Mark Hetherington jots down titles from the library card file.

trace paths of humanity's development

Intrigued by the witty slogans and eye-catching designs, Jace Repley, Dale Boen and Jill Miller examine a display of Junior Historical Society election campaign buttons.

Prepared to tackle a difficult problem, Tri-montary pupils Bill Royer and Bette Kip explain a demonstrative slide rule.

National Science Foundation students Harriet Bickelt and Marianne Mulrey demonstrate a Van de Graaff generator.

A binary counter clarifies the "base two" number system for Algebra I_g pupils Dave Bowers and Steve Chivington.

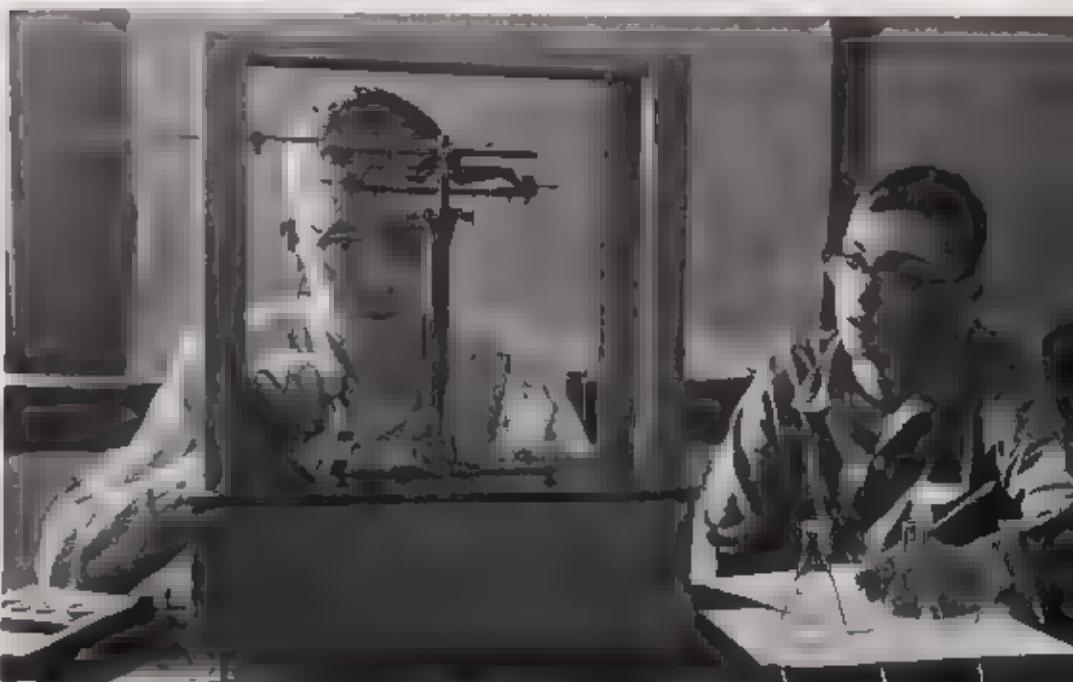

Math, science study natural laws

"To be a Homo sapien or not to be a Homo sapien; that is the question." The answer, which lies in the number of chromosomes in the body cells, proves again the connection between mathematics and science.

Delving into the magical world of figures, angles, and equations, Ripplites gain a broad mathematical background ranging from general math to Math X or Calculus and including algebra and geometry.

Complementing mathematical courses, Ripple's Science Department presents the opportunity to study biological, chemical, and physical sciences. Pupils of physical science gain a general knowledge of the earth and its make-up, while chemistry pupils study matter, energy, and the effects of their physical and chemical changes. General and advanced biology courses include material covering the study of life from the unicellular amoeba and lower plants to the multi-cellular human; physics introduces the natural laws governing the environments of these forms of life.

Preparing for an experiment, Steve Tague and Steve Wood meticulously weigh a chemical on an analytical balance.

As an introduction to the study of the human anatomy, advanced biology pupils Steve Browne and Nancy Krueger raise white mice for a comparative study of mammals Realistic chalk textures and highlights challenge Art II pupil Anne Walton to sketch still life with detailed accuracy.

Music theory pupils Kim Hauseman, Patty Graus, and Carolyn Ward build triads and chords on model keyboards.

Fine arts develop skills through hobby,

With intense precision, Izler Solomon conducts the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra's annual concert at Ripple.

Filling Ripple's halls with the sound of golden lyrics and the sight of artistic designing, pupils in the fine arts departments contribute to school cultural growth and achievement.

The Music Department offers opportunities for singers and instrumentalists alike. Vocal music training begins with a general course in Chorus I and continues upon merit of ability and talent to specialized studies in Golden Singers and Madrigals. Theory classes study the basic principles of musical composition in classical and modern pieces. Instrumental music courses offer instruction at all levels for a wide range of instruments. Advanced pupils have the opportunity to play in Ripple's Orchestra or Band.

Through the wanderings of a pencil, the carvings of a knife, or the stroke of a brush, art pupils utilize the opportunity to express themselves in sketches, sculpture, and paintings. A full eight semesters of possible art courses give pupils a chance to mix principles of color, design, and texture with their own personal tastes. In Ceramics and Craft Art pupils develop the ability to transform such common mediums as clay, paper, and leather into creative beauty of practical application.

Guided by their emotions, tastes, and abilities, inspired art pupils transfer ideas to the material mediums of poster board, chalk, and paint during advanced art class.

transform dreams of the future to reality

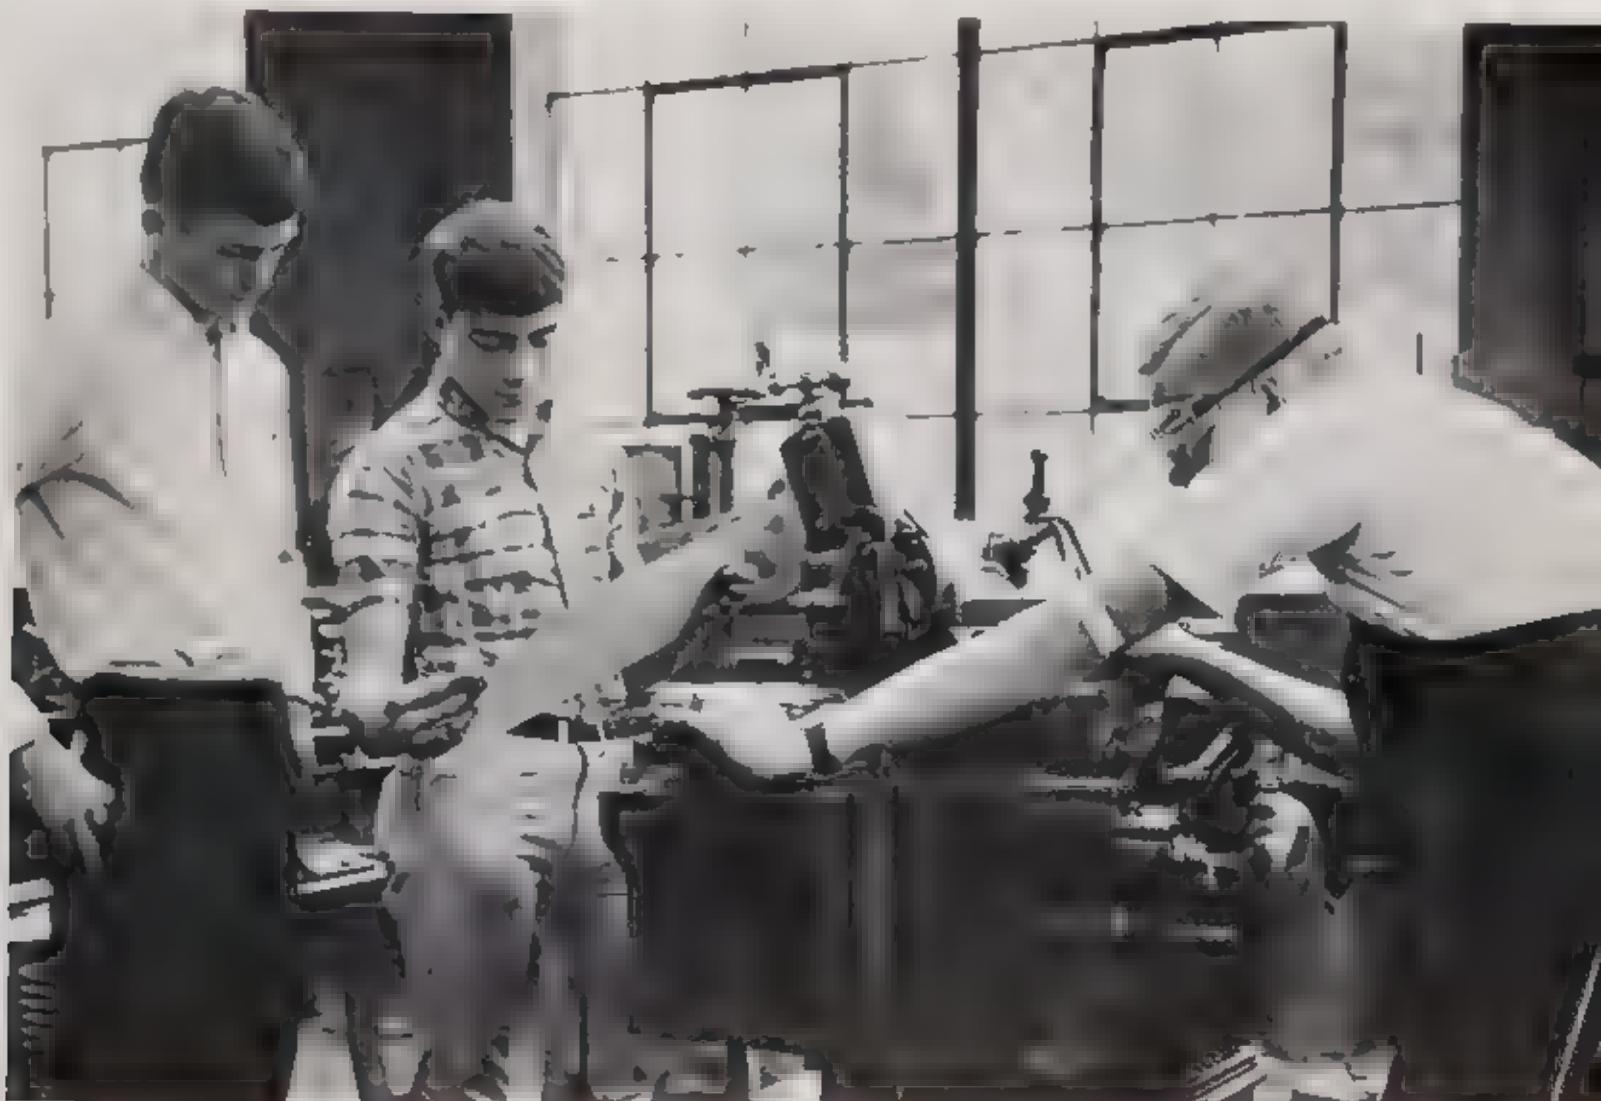

Aided visually by the new overhead projector, Mr. Frank Baird introduces the important facets of bookkeeping

Directed by Roger Holton and Don McCune, Jack Conn applies metal shop techniques in operating a "shaper."

Turning dreams of the future into the reality of a demanding world, Broad Ripple's practical arts departments prepare pupils for the life which awaits them outside the doors of high school. Providing a sound vocational background, Ripple offers courses in business education, home economics, and industrial arts.

Girls enrolling in the Home Economics Department learn to make the "stitch in time that will save them nine" and the food that may prove to be the key to some man's heart. Complementing the in-class sewing, cooking, and family living studies, future homemakers gain experience by giving style shows, teas, and receptions. In "shop" classes, tomorrow's builders learn the fundamentals of sheet metal work and wood craftsmanship. Mechanical drawing instruction teaches the fundamentals of measurement, design, and blueprint use.

The Business Education Department introduces varied vocational opportunities and solutions to business problems of everyday life. Courses in retail merchandising, business law, bookkeeping, typing, and shorthand teach business skills which qualify pupils for employment in later life.

Behind-the-wheel driving provides practice in parallel parking, one of the most difficult skills mastered in Driver Education.

Snapped to attention, Ripple's ROTC drill team shows the style that ranks it among the best in Indianapolis.

ROTC unit boasts

Capturing championships in the City Rifle Match, the North Central Invitational Drill, and the Veterans' Day Parade, Ripple's Reserve Officer Training Corps brought distinction to its small but highly efficient military training program. Preparing cadets to become officers of the nation's Armed Forces, ROTC stresses discipline, neatness, and skills in weapon use, drill maneuvers, and rifle accuracy.

Realizing that a healthy body is as important as a healthy mind, Ripple requires courses in Health and physical education to teach pupils to build and to maintain a healthy body through good nutrition and daily exercise. Freshman and advanced phys ed classes stress exercise through instruction in folk dancing, competitive sports, and aerobatics. Health classes study the anatomy and functions of the human body to better understand the importance of nutrition, grooming, and safety habits.

Through in-class and behind-the-wheel instruction, Driver Education pupils obtain an understanding of the complex structure of the automobile. Most important, Driver Ed provides the attitude, ability, and experience necessary to safe driving.

Phys. ed. enthusiasts Steve Logan, Phil Richardson, Pat St. Lep, and Rick Getsall develop physical fitness in climbing ropes.

Revealing the secret to 8 A. M. pep. Health pupils Linda Jamison and Bill Sillery stress breakfast habits.

Applause greet Mr. Murphy's acceptance of the permanent trophy for three consecutive championships presented Ripple's ROTC unit.

Phys. ed. assistants Linda Exley, Rose Cillag, and Donna Altherr learn correct form as the oasis for good golfing from Miss Barbara Vargo.

Activities

Furthering individual knowledge, pursuing personal hobbies, preparing for possible vocations, developing leadership, or serving the community, most Ripplites participate actively in their choice of school-sponsored clubs. Extending education beyond limits of academic work and into the realm of social organizations, activities form an important segment of Ripplife.

"Let's have a hootenanny!" agree National Thespian officers, Terri Kelly, Ken Richardson, Cindy New, and Tom Hubbard as they discuss Thespian Carnival plans.

Century-old folk songs echoed through the girls gym at the Association of Parents and Teachers' Carnival as the National Thespians sponsored Ripple's first hootenanny. Under Mr. William Fisher, Thespian members perfected theatrical skills in the production of Arsenic and Old Lace on February 18 and 20.

An English tutoring service for two Polish girls attending Ripple served as a National Honor Society project for the 39 seniors and nine juniors who answered to the '64-'65 roll call. While continuing work on service projects, National Honor Society invited guest speakers to monthly meetings and raised money for a formal induction dinner by selling popcorn and ice cream at home basketball games. Sponsored by Mr. Albert Mahin and Miss Winifred West, the Society honors scholarship, leadership, and service.

Expanding the Presidential campaign button collection kept members of Junior Historical Society on an intensive search for political material. Nearly 100 honorary junior historians supported the year's activities, which included a sightseeing trip to Chicago and a dance, "Hard Luck Hop," at the APT Carnival. Mr. J. Raymond Hall served as sponsor.

Services extend community relations

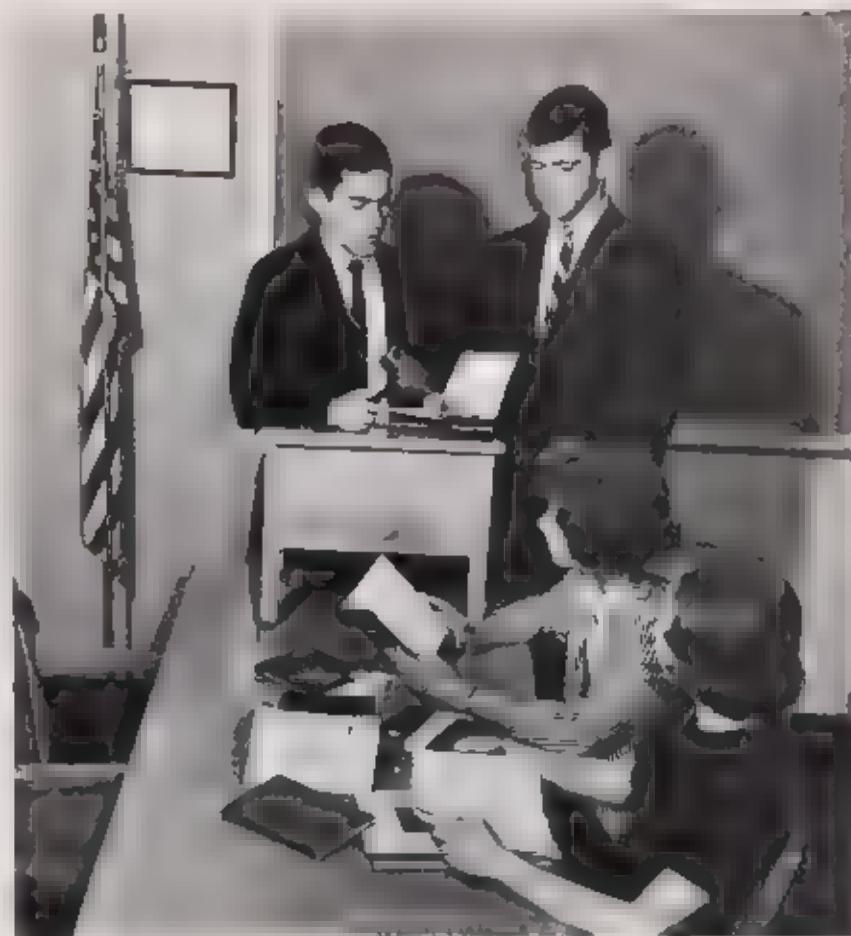

Devoting time and talent to their work, members of Ripple's service organizations directed projects to improve conditions in their school and community.

Extending their services into the community, Ripple's Key Club initiated a club chapter at the Indiana Blind School. At Thanksgiving, the boys and their sponsor, Mr. Warren K. Jackson, took a turkey dinner to an underprivileged family and bought clothes for their children. Honored as the outstanding Key Club chapter in the state for the '63-'64 school year, Key Club worked vigorously this year to maintain its excellent reputation.

Striving to improve Council-pupil relations, Student Council opened meetings to the student body for the first time. Special sessions concerning school problems and parliamentary procedure were conducted for all extra-curricular club presidents and Council members. Sponsored by Mrs. Marilyn Dearing and Mr. Gene Poston, the Council supervised all Homecoming events.

Orange Aid, a club for all Ripple girls, began the '64-'65 school year with the Big and Little Sister program. Sponsored by Mrs. Rosalind Ewing, Orange Aid organized freshman orientations, redecorated the faculty women's restrooms, and planned the annual Mothers' Day Auditorium presented in May.

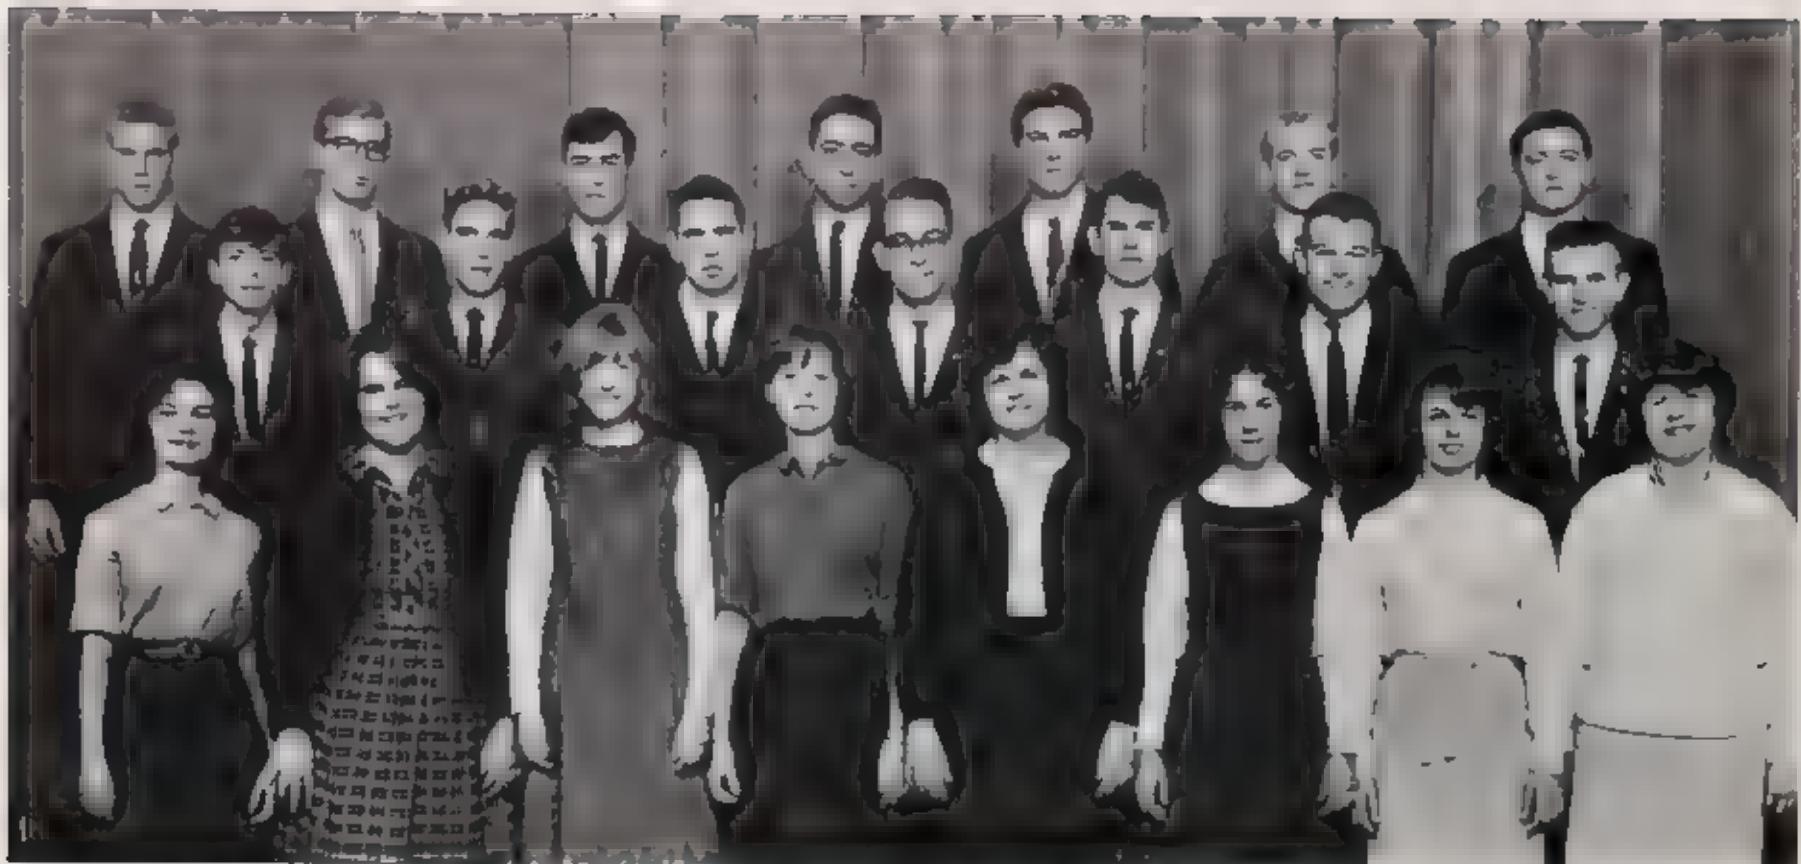

Earning money for service projects, Orange Aid officers Micki Ballard, Julie Goldsmith, Anne Bradford, and Melissa Martin organize used books for re-sale

Student Council officers Marty Zohn, Tony Castor, Sara Compton and Kim Kercheval confer on plans to open council meetings to the Ripple students

Tri-Hi-Y officers Patty Wright, Janet Moeller, Lindy Scott, and Susie Frakes review safety procedures before the final 100-meter installation.

"A-OK" was the word on cars in the Broad Ripple parking lot as Safety Council completed its annual fall car check. Sponsored by Mr. Harold K. Harding, the council promoted safety in and out of school. The honorary group also sponsored the yearly Fathers' Association Safety Essay and Poster Contest, climaxed by an all-school auditorium on March 10.

"Bibliophiles" of the Library Club gathered boxes filled with books for delivery to La Rue Carter Hospital. In addition to performing services to the community under the direction of librarian Mrs. Phoebe Diederich, the club sponsored Ripple's annual literary Christmas tree ornament contest.

The Stage, Sound, and Light Crews added effective staging to the year's auditorium programs through continuous work with stage props, lighting equipment, and audio-visual aids. The crew's ability and alertness kept all programs running on cue.

Broad Ripple chapters of Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y, guided by Mr. Robert Eisenbarth and Miss Jean Hoilman, devoted their Saturday mornings to supervising planned excursions for underprivileged children at Mayer Chapel Neighborhood House. In addition to feeding needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas, members represented foreign countries in the Model United Nations at the State House.

Enthusiastic Library Cadet officers Karen Wilson, Chris Lohss, and Madeline Stephens collect boxes of used books for delivery to needy children's homes.

Kicking off spring candy sales, Hi Y officers Bill Goodman, Rick Posser, Rick Daniels, Larry Rust, and Charles Steen distribute boxes of mints.

Co-curricular groups stress creativity

Fire whirled dramatically through the air as Ripple's baton twirlers delighted football spectators during half time. Directed by Mr. Wallace A. Decker, baton and flag twirlers led the Marching Band in parades and football performances throughout the year. They also guided Baton Club by promoting interest and giving twirling instructions to prospective majorettes. Each spring, competitive tryouts determine which candidates will march with Ripple's Band during the next school year.

The 25 members of Foreigners wrote and edited French and Spanish newspapers for pupils in foreign language classes. Further displaying their knowledge of foreign tongues and customs, club members organized an international "casino" at the APT Carnival with the aid of their sponsor, Miss Helle Ajango. The casino consisted of games representing European, Asian, South American, and Central American countries. Highlighting the year's meetings, Indiana University Honors Students Anita Hyer, Sandi Servaas, Nancy Wright, and Carol Boyer, and American Field Service Student Jim Cooney presented informative, illustrated talks of their adventures in Europe and Mexico.

Spooks, ghosts, and crazy mazes invaded Ripple for the Art Club-sponsored Mystery Room at the APT Carnival. In addition to "bewitching" many Riplites, members later brought Easter joy to patients of Harris Sanitorium by decorating the lobby with an Easter Egg tree. Furthering their purpose of service to school and community through art, the club assumed responsibility for repairing Ripple's mosaic. To improve their art appreciation and further their talents, enthusiastic club members visited John Herron Art Museum, Stewart-Carey stained-glass window studio, and Tafflinger's Art Studio.

Members of Creative Writing Club displayed writing ability and creativity through literary works. As the new sponsor, Miss Susan Nelson supervised and advised club members in their work, enriching their knowledge of better writing through criticism and suggestions. An induction party for new members, who were selected through teacher recommendations and membership voting, began the year's activities. Highlighting the club's program schedule, elegant desserts set the pace for the Samuel Pepys Preview of Continental Desserts on February 23.

Ripplites' interests,

Striving to perpetuate the ideals of Broad Ripple's motto, "Broader, Richer, Human Service," members of Future Nurses Club and High School Red Cross combined community projects with educational programs in this year's activity schedule.

High School Red Cross made favors, planned games, and designed decorations for Thanksgiving and Christmas festivities for Central State Hospital patients. Opening the educational facets of their organization to the entire student body, Red Cross sponsored a first aid course. Miss Max Moreillon, club sponsor, instructed the course, which included safety precautions and emergency procedures.

Newly re-organized under a National Charter, Broad Ripple's Future Nurses Club planned a party to entertain children at Noble School. The club's 20 girls prepared for possible nursing careers or home-making responsibilities through participation in the St. Vincent's Hospital Open House and Student Mental Health Day. Sponsored by Mrs. Ruth Fife, the girls toured city hospitals and listened to lectures by prominent Indianapolis women in the field of nursing.

Supplementing their unique high school collection, Stamp and Coin Club officers Dick Byrd, Rick Gustafson, Carl Cohen, and Jim Heubi add a valuable "commemorative"

hobbies, goals reflected in club projects

Founded for pupils with common interests, Broad Ripple's "hobby" organizations enable members to investigate every aspect of their avocations.

Newly-established Home Economics Club evolved from the homemaking interests of 15 Ripple girls. Directed by "home ec" teacher Mrs. Mary Hammel, members baked cookies and fashioned aprons for sales at the APT Carnival. In December, they distributed toys, Christmas trees, and home-made stockings filled with candy and gifts to needy children.

Stamp and Coin Club members initiated a club stamp collection this year with the aid of their sponsor, Mr. Robert Eisenbath. The boys boast one of the few high school club collections in Indianapolis. Traditionally quiet and orderly meetings became vigorous auctions as members sold and traded stamps and coins to improve their individual collections.

Antique camera discussions and "positive development" lectures highlighted Photo Club's meetings this year. Sponsored by Miss Fran Lindley, the boys worked to improve techniques in composing, developing, and printing good photographs.

Top-rated vocalists

After four weeks of hectic nightly rehearsals and several all-day practices, Golden Singers presented a colorful version of the Rogers and Hammerstein musical, Carousel. In addition, as the most advanced vocal group at Broad Ripple, Golden Singers presented more than 25 programs under the direction of Mr. Gene Poston. With Madrigals, A Capella Choir, Band, and Orchestra, Golden Singers performed for the annual Christmas Program for the student body. In May, the group joined with the entire vocal and instrumental music departments to stage the Spring Music Festival and participated in the All-City Choir Festival at Washington High School.

The 12 members of Madrigals, chosen from Golden Singers for abilities to blend with others and to sing unaccompanied, specialized in the intricate music of the fifteenth century. Directed by Mrs. Rosalee Hoffmann, the group presented over 20 programs and won a first division rating in the District Solo and Ensemble Contest.

Choirs perform in school, community

"Open your mouths and sing!" cried Mr. Gene Poston to his 52 member A Capella Choir. The Choir studied various forms of music ranging from popular Broadway musical hits to sacred chorales. Combining with Madrigals and Golden Singers, the Choir participated in the annual Christmas Program, caroled in downtown Indianapolis, and sang in the Spring Vocal and Instrumental Music Festival.

Girls' Concert Choir, the most advanced all-girl singing group, presented programs for numerous civic organizations in the Broad Ripple area. Directed by Mrs. Rosalee Hofmann, the girls specialized in four part singing. Further training in music theory and sight reading prepared the girls for membership in the more advanced mixed vocal groups.

Clef Club, also sponsored by Mrs. Hofmann, honors musically talented pupils who vie for membership in semi-annual auditions. The musicians presented their annual spring auditorium and brought the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra Brass Ensemble to Ripple for an afternoon concert. Clef Club member David Collins performed as violin soloist with the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra for the October Young People's Concert at Clowes Hall. David also served as concert master in the Ripple Orchestra.

Striving for perfection in tone, balance, and presentation, Broad Ripple's Band and Orchestra passed many hours in enthusiastic practice. Summer vacation ended early for the 60 members of the Ripple Band, who began marching practice in mid-August despite sweltering temperatures hovering near 100 degrees. The Band and the Rockets' football team worked side by side on Diederich Memorial Field to put a last-minute polish on formations for the City Football Jamboree, September 1. Continuing practice throughout the year, the Band worked under the direction of Mr. Wallace A. Decker to improve their musical skills. Annual Veteran's Day, Christmas and "500" Festival Parades highlighted a series of over 25 performances given by the Band.

Putting aside homework and individual interests, the 50 Ripplites in the Orchestra spent many hours in frenzied rehearsal for this year's musical, Carousel. Directed by Mr. Paul Brown, the Orchestra toured neighboring grade schools and performed in Ripple's Christmas and Spring Music Festivals.

Forceful determination, individual skill, and unwavering loyalty characterized each of the 52 Ripplites on the Riparian staff. An incessant bustling activity, created by a jangling telephone, tapping typewriters, and scurrying editors echoed into the otherwise quiet halls through the day, long after school, and often into the night.

Under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Marie Griggs and Miss Fran Lindley, the Riparianites sought to produce another series of award-winning issues. In September, the entire staff presented its annual auditorium to acquaint pupils with every facet of the Riparian and to begin subscription sales.

Honored for its completeness and effectiveness in coverage, the Riparian has received awards dating back to 1949, including the Quill and Scroll Honor Rating, the George Gallup Award, and the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Medalist Rating.

Flashing cameras caught candid shots as the members of the Riparian photo staff worked together to add extra interest to Ripple's publications through photography. Under Miss Fran Lindley, sponsor, the amateur photographers developed and enlarged pictures for both the Riparian Newspaper and Yearbook. The staff received five top honors for pictures entered in the Arlington Press Day Photo Contests.

News Bureau staffers acted as correspondents from the Riparian to the local newspapers. They kept Indianapolis citizens informed of the achievements and activities of Broad Ripple pupils. Personnel, Newspaper Advertising, Exchange, Managing, and Copy Editing Department directly assisted in business duties of the newspaper staff for the production of the biweekly Riparian paper.

Outstanding journalists are elected to honorary membership in Quill and Scroll, sponsored by Mrs. Ruth Marie Griggs. A fall induction dinner at Dodd's Flagpole Townhouse, the Holiday Punch Party for former Riparian staff members, the Arlington Press Day conference, and the Spring Awards Banquet comprised this year's schedule.

Riparian Yearbook

The frenzied click of a typewriter, the pressured snap of a broken copy pencil, and many frantic moans are common sounds that filter through the door of Room 92 into the second floor hall of the new building. Hidden behind that door is the secret home of the Riparian Yearbook and its closely-knit family of 42 staff members.

Long hours of drawing layouts, writing copy, cropping pictures, and revising proofs combined to produce the 1965 Riparian. In preparation for their work, 22 staff members attended 10 different journalism institutes during the summer.

Working late after school, staffers often hurried home at six or seven o'clock only to return later that evening for club meetings or athletic events. Taking pride in their work, Riparianites forfeited many cherished vacation hours to see that the yearbook met all deadlines.

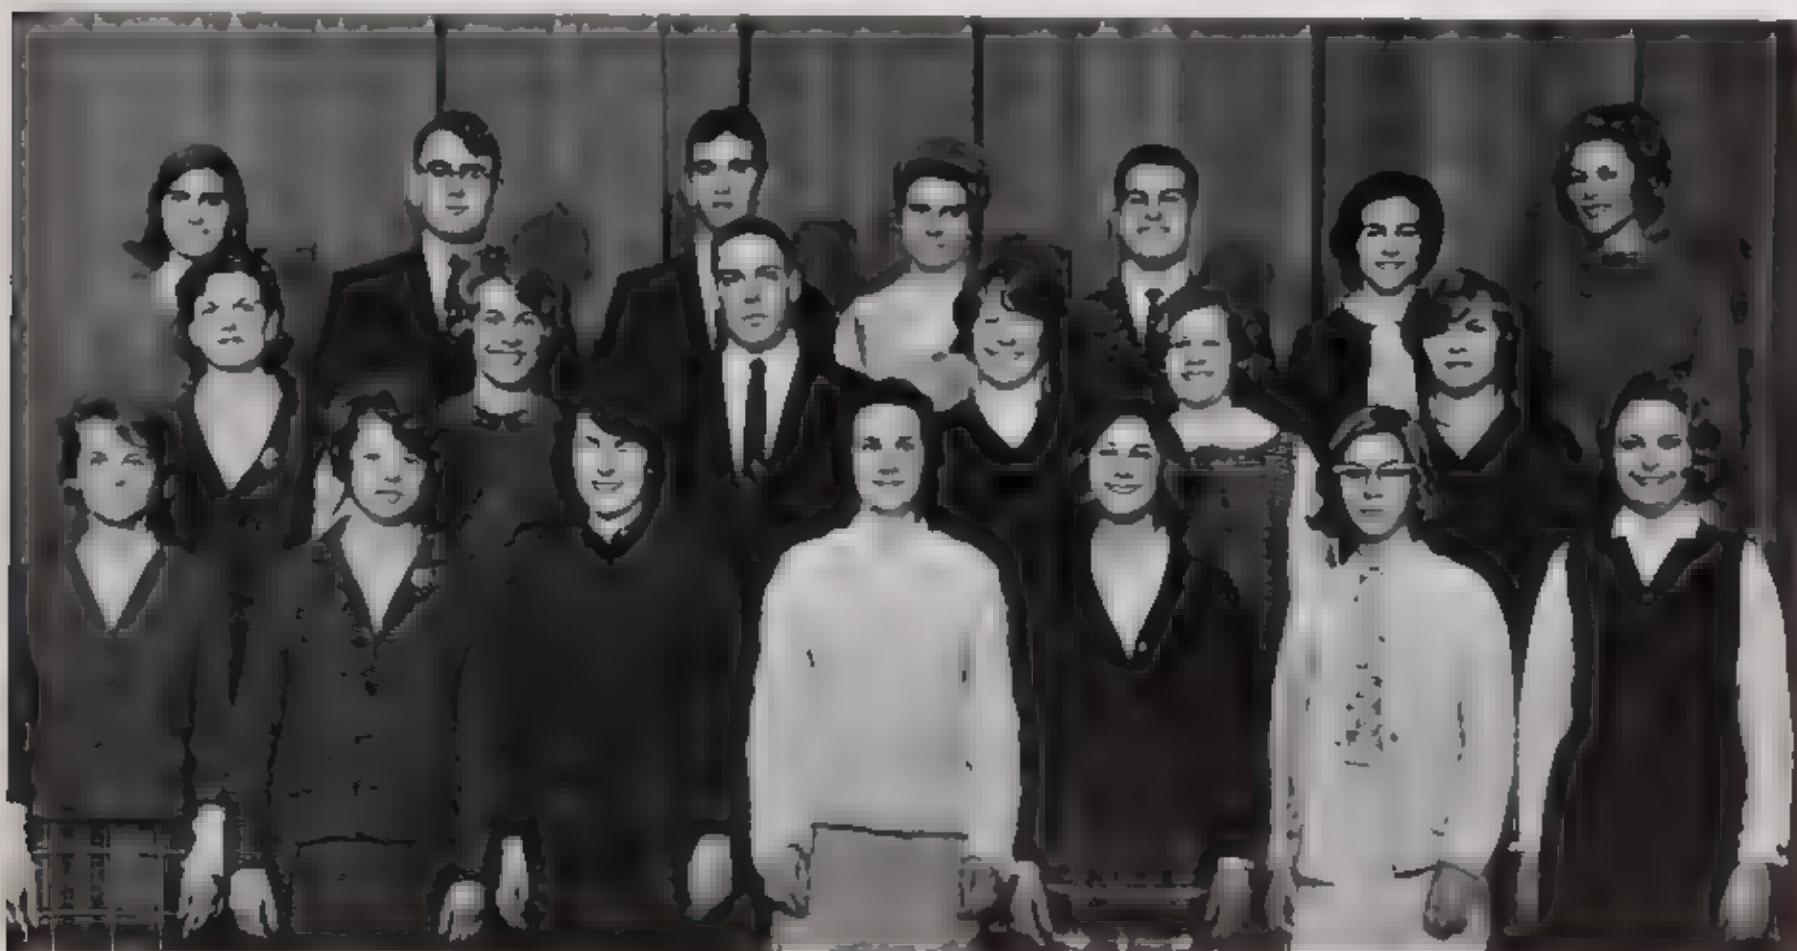

In October, the National Scholastic Press Association awarded Ripple's sixteenth consecutive All-American rating to the 1964 Riparian. Staffers received the news with pride and hoped that this year's Riparian would equal its predecessors.

Sponsored by Mr. Arnold Pahmeier, Booster Club purchased new cheerleading uniforms with their annual dues.

Arousing school spirit and increasing game attendance were the primary objectives of the '65 cheerleading squad. Under the supervision of Miss Barbara Vargo, the cheerleaders led the school in supporting Ripple's team athletic events.

Honored for sportsmanship and athletic prowess in any of 10 different sports, over 60 boys became members of the Lettermen's Club this year. Sponsored by Mr. Robert Ludlow, the boys assisted regularly at basketball games and sponsored a spring dance.

At one time ranked as the fourth best team in the state and the top squad in the city, the 1964 football team proved to be one of the best in years for Broad Ripple as it finished the season with an outstanding 7-3 record.

Although Coach Bob Brown fielded a team consisting of only eight seniors, the Rockets remained undefeated in the first five games of the season. However, they suddenly fell into a disappointing mid-season slump, losing three straight contests and their hopes for the city championship.

Ripple opened the season by smashing Northwest, 33-7. Bill Holton, Ken Castor, Mike Perry and Steve Berger accounted for the scoring. The outstanding play of the game was Perry's 75-yard quarterback sneak, good for six points.

In the second game of the season, Ripple gained a long-sought revenge on Tech as they trounced the Titans, 42-14. Perry blasted the game open as he ran for a 70-yard touchdown. Ken Castor took the ball off tackle early in the second quarter to add another six points. Perry passed to Ron Short for a third touchdown, putting the halftime score at 20-7. Second-half scores by Short, Holton, Steve Nealon and Berger insured Ripple of the victory.

The Rockets' big victory came in the next game as they defeated a strong Scenic team, 6-0. Starting on the Scenic 30-yard line, Perry connected with Short for two completed passes, the second of which found Short in the end zone to give the Rockets the game-winning score. A powerful Ripple defense repeatedly turned back the Crusader scoring threats to make the slim lead last.

Ratings soared and sportswriters raised their eyebrows as the Ripple machine remained unbeaten by defeating rival North Central, 27-9. Rick Lee skirted the end early in the second quarter to open the scoring for the Rockets. However, Ripple found themselves behind 9-6 at halftime. Two second-half scores by Perry and a touchdown by Lee gave Ripple the winning total.

A week later, Ripple extended its record to 5-0 with a 33-19 victory over Howe. After recovering a fumble on the first play of the game, Ripple marched 44 yards in seven plays with Shookman going the last five yards for the touchdown. About ten playing minutes later, Holton darted 14 yards to the end zone for the second score. Late in the second quarter, Nealon intercepted a Howe pass and streaked 69 yards for the third Ripple touchdown. Scores by Perry and Holton gave Ripple the final tally.

The downfall of Ripple's title dreams came at the hands of Washington on October 9 as the Continentals handed the Rockets their first loss, 19-14.

Possibly the season's biggest surprise came one week later as Manual upset Ripple, 12-7. Trailing at the end of the first half, Manual came back late in the contest to win their homecoming game.

The Ripple Eleven had hopes of upsetting powerful Cathedral and acquiring a share of the city title. However, the Irish downed Broad Ripple in a close 14-13 battle at CYO Field.

Taking command of the first half, the Rockets scored twice to make the half time score 13-0. The second half, as in the two previous losses, was the Rockets' downfall as Cathedral scored two touchdowns to hand Ripple a painful one-point loss.

The two final games of the season seemed rather anti-climactic as Ripple defeated Shortridge, 26-13, and walked over Arlington in a 40-0 decision. In the Shortridge contest, Perry scored twice in the first half on two keep plays. However, Ripple trailed 13-12 at the half. But the Rockets ruled the second half, as Shookman and Perry accounted for the scoring to give the Rockets a 26-13 victory over Shortridge. Ripple literally ran over Arlington, 40-0, in the final season contest. First-half touchdowns came on a 44-yard Perry to Short combination pass, and a five-yard keep play by Perry to put the Golden Knights behind 26-0 at the half. An interception by Nealon and a two-yard plunge by Robin Young raised the total to 40-0.

Mr. Earl Dosey's reserve team, losing only to Cathedral and Washington, posted an outstanding 8-2 record. The frosh finished with a 3-7 slate.

The season was highlighted by the selection of Mike Perry and Steve Nealon to the All-City squad. Bill Simon and Ron Short were also chosen to the News '64 All-City squad.

Cross Country team displays potential

by Paul Manweiler

Completing a successful building season under new coach George Mingle, the Ripple harriers showed potential strength by capturing top positions in five of their scheduled meets this year.

Mike Aurs led the thinclads in every meet but one and turned in the year's best time of 10:31 for the two-mile run. Don Carnahan followed with a 10:33.

The hill-and-dalers started the '64 season on the first day of school by placing second in a triangular meet with Carmel and Zionsville. Three days later, in a meet with North Central and Manual, the Rockets came out second best once more. Aurs turned in the Rockets' top time of 10:34. Bob Blackburn also finished under 11 minutes.

The thinclads matched their skills against ten other schools in the Washington Invitational and finished ninth. Aurs and Blackburn placed in the top forty out of eighty runners competing in the meet. Next, Ripple beat Chatard as the Rockets won the top five spots for a perfect meet.

North Central did not play the role of the perfect guest in the Broad Ripple Invitational, as it overpowered all opposition. Aurs and Carnahan both ran the two mile course under 11 minutes. The Rockets placed seventh out of the ten schools. On September 29, the harriers picked up another seventh place at the Howe Invitational meet.

A fired-up Ripple team was waiting for Cathedral on October 1. The Rockets sought revenge for the previous year when Cathedral won the first eight places. Aurs led the harriers to victory with a 10:36. Close behind were Carnahan, 10:46; Blackburn, 10:50; Richard Furlow, 10:52; and Doug LeMaster, 10:58.

In the City Meet at South Grove, Carnahan's 10:47 led the Rockets to ninth place. Aurs led the first mile but had to drop back and settle for the second position of the Rocket team.

Finishing the season one week later, Ripple met two strong city teams, Northwest and Arlington, at Broad Ripple Park. Once more the Rockets showed their potential as they placed their first six runners under the 11-minute mark. But the effort was not enough to upset a strong Arlington team, who placed five runners in the top positions.

Individual accomplishments strengthen

by Don Berns

Capitalizing on individual ability and an outstanding command of wrestling maneuvers, the Ripple matmen highlighted a weak 2-9 season with personal triumphs in both City and Sectional matches.

Coach Milton Hiatt, who returned as varsity wrestling coach this year, guided the Rockets to victories over Seecina, 27-18, and Tech, 29-23.

In the City Meet, Ripple captured a first, a second, and a fourth in various weight classes. Jim Gage won a close final match in the 127-pound weight division to become the Rockets' only City Champion. John Lieberman placed second in the 103-pound class, while Mike Wood placed fourth at 145.

Following the regular season, the Hiattmen participated in the State Tournament beginning with the Sectionals at Broad Ripple. Gage again proved to be an outstanding competitor as he overpowered his first two opponents. Conquering an overtime clash, Gage emerged as Sectional Champion. John Lieberman advanced easily through his first two matches before he was outpointed in the final bout by Shortridge grappler Joe Thorpe.

Gage, the lone Ripple wrestler to advance to the Regionals, was downed by Arlington opponent John Gorbett whom Gage had earlier defeated in City competition.

The wrestlers maintained outstanding individual records even though they were unable to post a winning team slate. Gage finished with a 20-2 season, and Lieberman sported a 15-1 record. Steve Cremeans posted a 9-6 tally and Mike Wood produced a 9-7-1 slate for the '65 season.

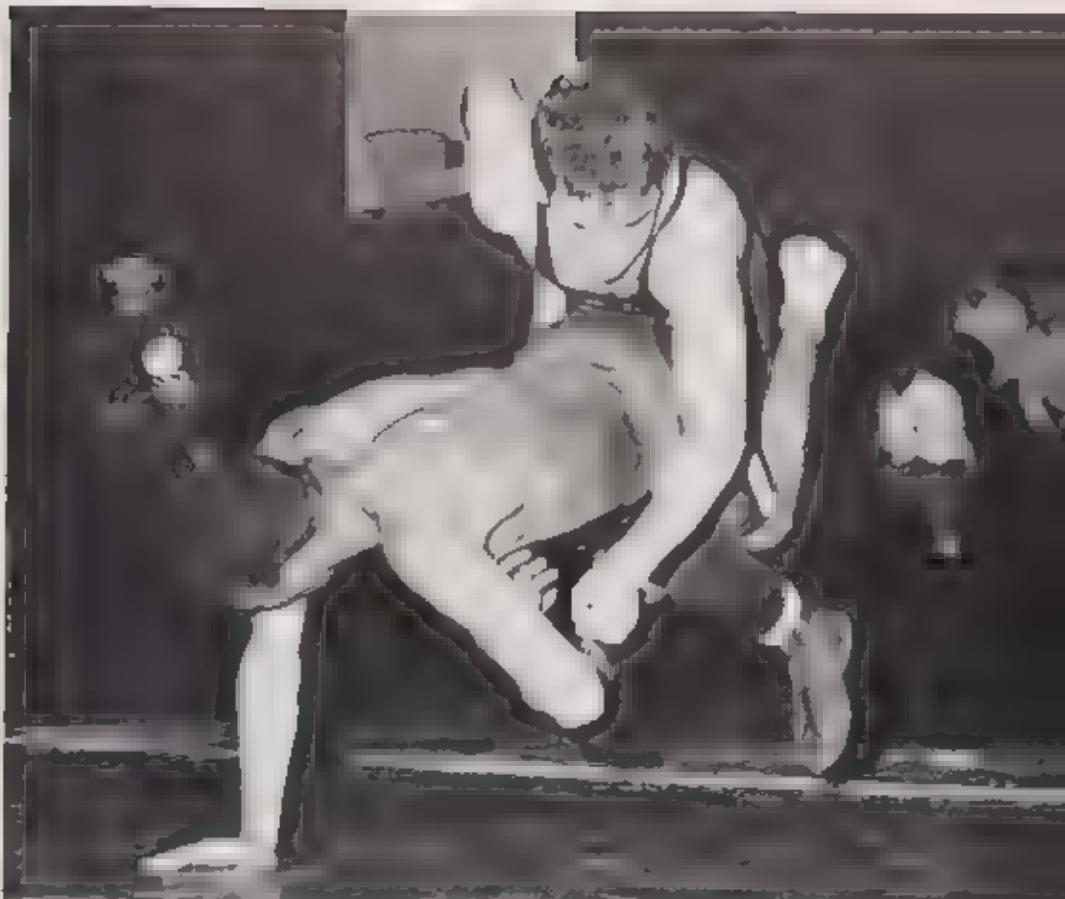

The reserve grapplers outdistanced Wood, Howe, and Seecina to post a 3-6-1 season mark.

Rocket five blasts Sectional contenders

by Scooter Engel

Ball-hawking guard Alan Cohen halts a fast-moving Washington player while Bill Hull helps to box him in.

Dropping a heartbreaker to eventual Sectional victor Ben Davis and defeating Tourney title contenders Tech, Cathedral, and Shorridge, the Rocket roundballers finished the '65 season with an impressive 13-7 slate. Boosting tourney title hopes, Ripple defeated Tech 66-62 during the regular season; however, cold shooting and foul trouble lost a Sectional re-match for the Rockets in the final two minutes of play. Ripple held the lead with only 3:02 left in the game, but Tech suddenly shot to a 53-48 lead and went on to clinch a 58-50 victory. Outstanding individual effort won Bill Hull a spot on the All-Sectional Team.

Ripple opened the regular season against Lawrence Central with a balanced scoring attack; all five starters tallied in double figures. Ball-hawking guards Alan Cohen and Rick Lee caused a flurry of Lawrence errors which led to a 71-64 Ripple victory. Cohen scored four points in five seconds to cap off a 26-point performance.

Coach Gene Ring's fivesome met their first defeat in a 65-61 heartbreaker at the hands of Marion County Champ Ben Davis. Cohen all but sewed up the game by putting the Rockets ahead with only four seconds left. However, Ben Davis quickly maneuvered the ball to Charles Russel, whose last-second 20-foot jump shot tied the score at 59-all and forced the Rockets into an unsuccessful overtime.

The following week, Hull led the Rockets with 26 points in an 80-77 victory over Decatur Central. Saturday, Carmel pulled off a startling upset, toppling Ripple 71-66. The Rockets led 32-27 at the half before falling in the third quarter.

Sacred Heart gave the Rockets little difficulty, succumbing 86-66. Led by Hull's rebounding and Cohen's 23-point effort, the Rockets cruised to an easy victory, placing four men in double figures. Senior guards Lee and Cohen teamed up for 40 points to put down Crawfordsville, 72-70. The Athenians led at the half, 34-30, and the end of the third period, 55-52, but yielded to a hot Ripple assault in the fourth quarter.

There were no bright spots in Howe's 74-53 romp over Ripple. The Rockets lagged behind by as much as 25 points, and Hull and Cohen were the only men in double figures. In their next contest, the Ringmen bounced back to crush Scenic, 85-62.

The first game after Christmas vacation showed Ripple in excellent form as the Rockets gave the third-ranked Manual Redskins the biggest scare of the '65 playing season. Upset-minded Ripple led by as many as nine points in the first half but faltered as Manual scored 11 straight, leaving the Rockets with a narrow 28-26 half time advantage. The Redskins' hot shooting gained them a 47-40 lead at the end of the third quarter and enabled them to sustain a late Ripple rally for the 64-60 win.

Rockets rediscovered the victory trail. Finding Richmond to be a formidable opponent, Ripple trailed 38-23 at the half. However, a strong attack in the third and fourth quarters overcame the half time deficit, and Ripple emerged the victor of a 58-55 thriller. A 72-68 decision over Arlington and an 84-64 slaughter of Cathedral's Irish followed the Richmond game.

Ripple entered the City Tourney as a favorite, but Shortridge shattered victory hopes with a 66-59 decision in the first game. In the consolation match, the Rockets humbled Chatard's Trojans, 68-41.

Eventual Sectional Champ Washington handed the Rockets a thorough 89-65 thumping, but the Rockets recovered quickly, traveling to northside rival North Central to tame the Panthers, 67-56. Demonstrating the hot shooting which saved the game, Hull piled up 22 points in the battle.

Ripple's hopes of Sectional promise rose to the sky as the Rockets controlled Tech's Titans the entire game and raced to a stunning 66-62 victory. Ripple went on to avenge an earlier loss to Shortridge's Blue Devils by a 67-62 margin.

Underrated Noblesville snapped the Rockets' four-game winning streak with a surprising 71-67 victory. Ripple finished the season by downing Greencastle with a narrow 61-60 edge. The see-saw battle ended only in the final seconds when Cohen intercepted a desperation pass.

The reserve cagers finished 11-9, while Mr. George Mingle's frosh tallied a 1-13 effort.

end with 6-6 tally

Directed by 29-year coaching veteran Frank Baird, Broad Ripple's varsity baseball team battled through a formidable schedule to close the season with a commendable 6-6 record.

Opening the season during the third week of April, the Rockets captured a pair of home games from Crispus Attucks and Zionsville. Ripple edged out Attucks by a score of 5-4. A home run by Ron Short gave Ripple the winning total.

Routing the Zionsville Eagles, 13-4, the Rockets blasted seven runs in the first inning to put themselves far out of Zionsville's reach. Five hits, including Randy Mitchell's three-run double, accounted for the scoring.

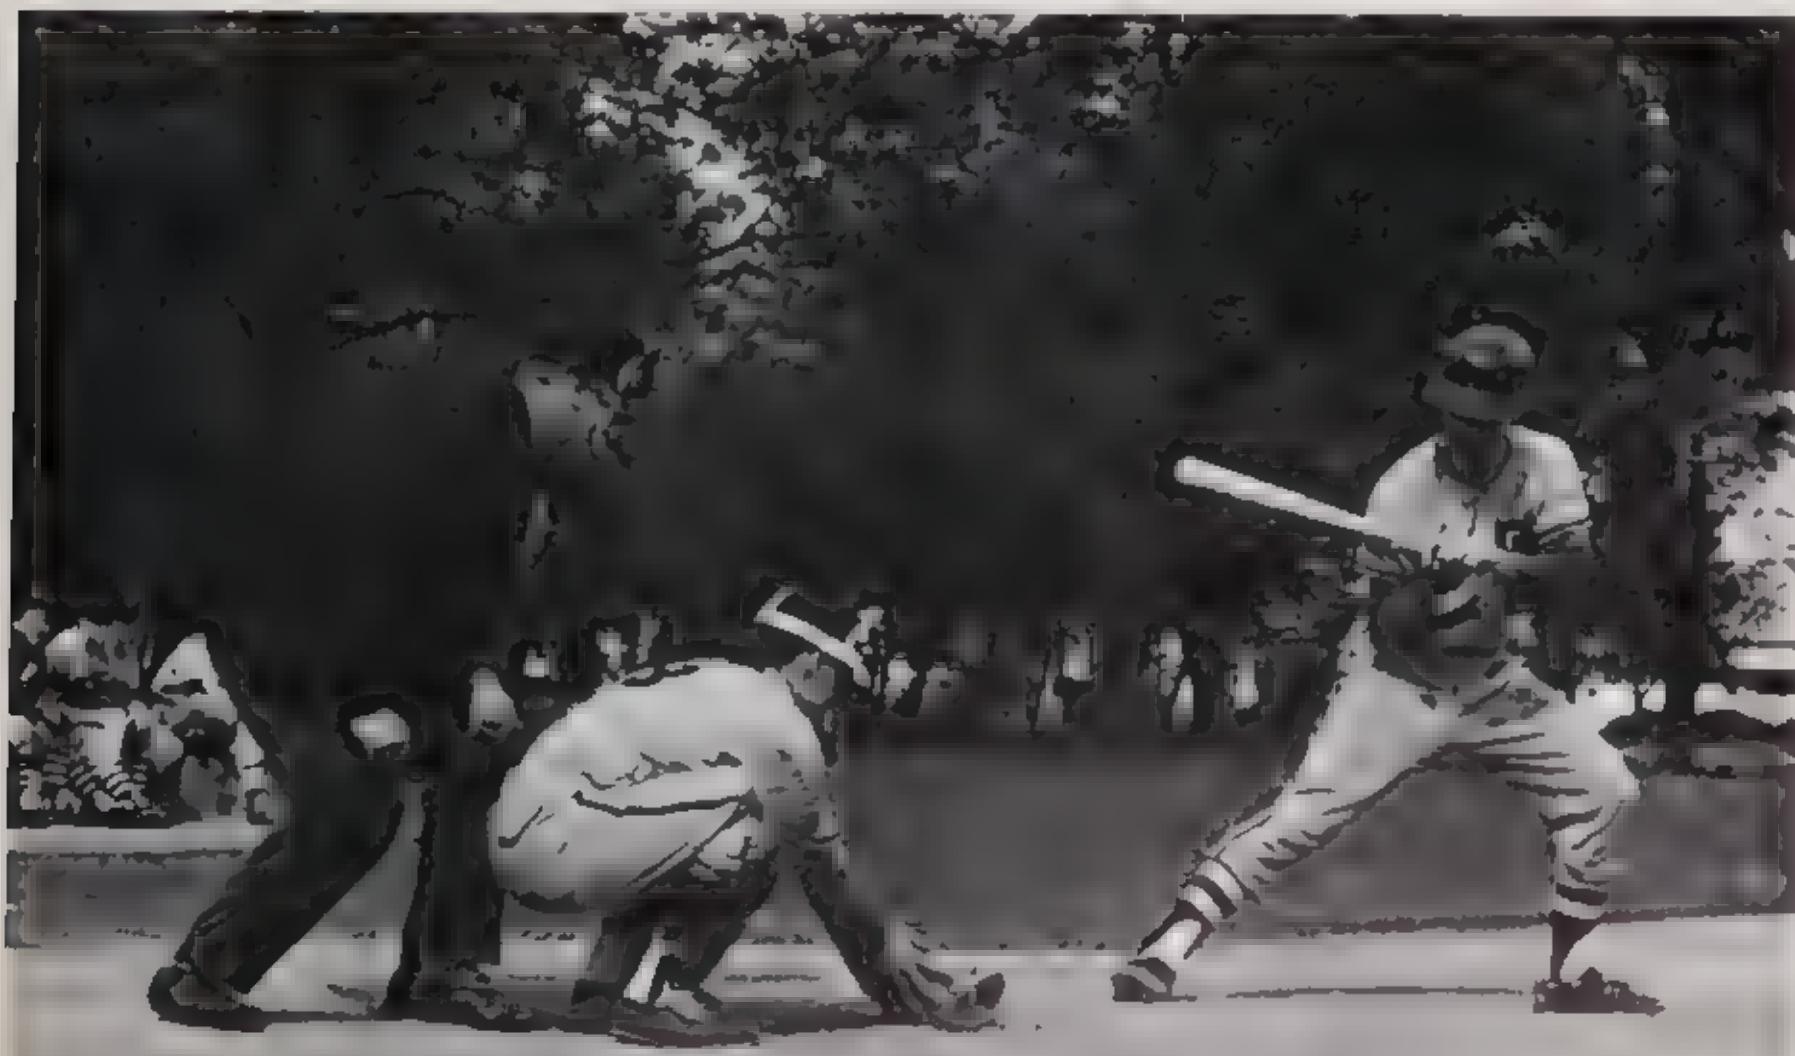

In the first contest after bad weather, a visiting Lawrence Central team outclassed the Rockets 7-1. Back on their winning track again, the diamondmen defeated Howe 7-3 on a five-run fourth inning. Broad Ripple took a 17-2 beating from the Shortridge Blue Devils at Broad Ripple Park.

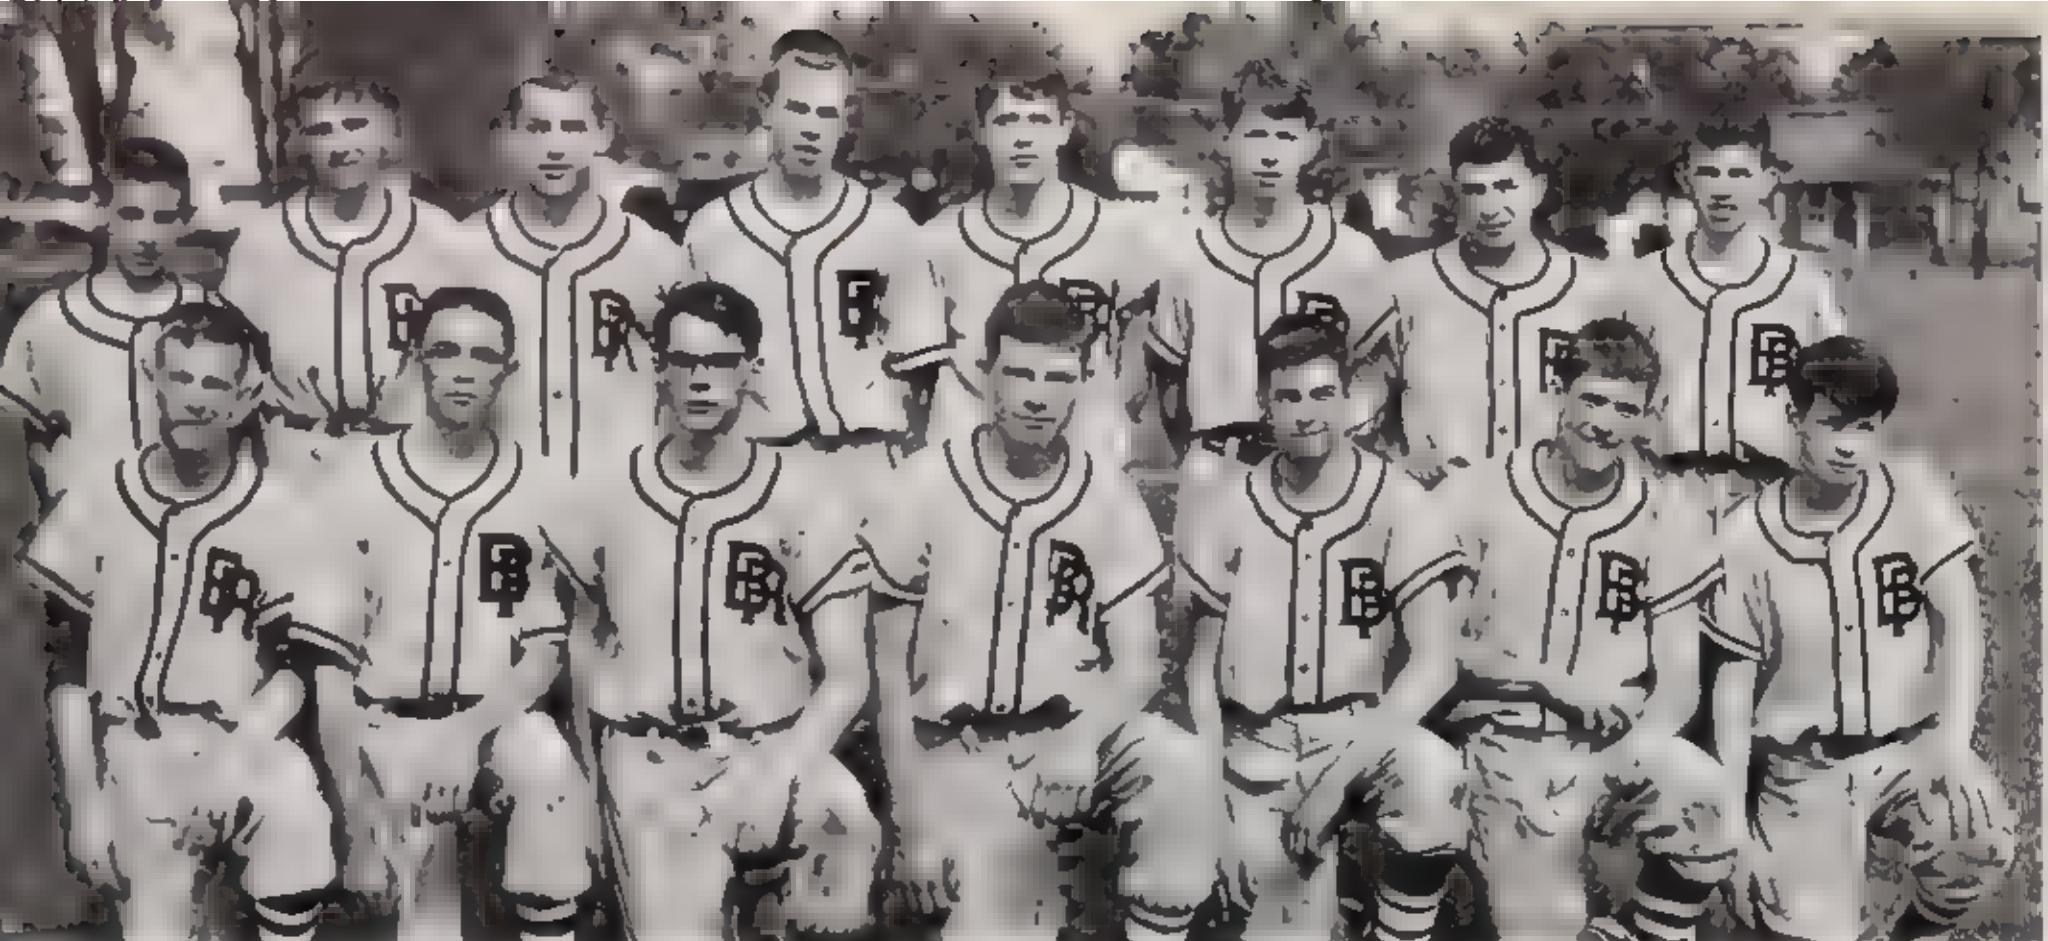

Enlisting their best fielding maneuvers and batting abilities, the Bairdmen squeezed by Northwest 3-2 in their best-played game of the year. Taking advantage of a two-run third inning, the Rockets captured an early lead from Northwest. A walk, a hit, and an error allowed the runs to score. The Rockets clinched the victory in the fifth inning by scoring the final run. Randy Mitchell singled, stole second, advanced to third on a passed ball, and then scored on a squeeze bunt laid down by Marty Carpenter.

During the week following the Northwest contest, Ripple dropped two games, both played at Washington Park. On May 11, a potent ball club from Tech outbatted Broad Ripple 6-3. Ripple scored three runs on six hits against Tech's six runs on twelve hits.

Attempting to connect with the ball for a base hit, Ron Short fouls it within the catcher's reach

Against the Continentals, on Thursday, May 14, the Rockets committed five fielding errors which caused the team to lose to Washington by a 10-2 margin.

On May 18, the Bairdmen captured their fifth victory of the season by defeating Arlington 6-4 at Broad Ripple Park. Ron Short and Kent Shookman accounted for the scoring, knocking in two runs in the third and three in the fifth. The following Wednesday the diamondmen were blanked by a strong Cathedral team at Washington Park.

After losing a game to North Central 10-8, the Rockets shut out Wood 16-0. Fine Rocket batting and no-hit pitching from Shookman gave Ripple its final victory of the season.

The reserve ball team, under the direction of Mr. William Sirka, ended the season with a 2-6 record, while the frosh posted a 0-1 record.

Golfers take city in 16-3-2 season

by Rob Davis

Led by Rick Lee, Sam Taylor, and Randy Sexson, the Ripple golf team, coached by John Perry, concluded a highly successful 16-3-2 season. Although the varsity was young, the team compiled the finest record of the past three years.

Opening strong, the linksters won six straight victories over strong teams before being upset by Northwest $9\frac{1}{2}$ to $8\frac{1}{2}$. Led by Lee, they rolled over Pendleton and Lawrence Central before tying Cathedral and finishing second in a three-way meet at Lebanon. The team won an impressive victory in a seven-team meet at Bloomington with a combined effort of 404. Lee posted a 75 for the team low.

Wins over Washington and Tech offset a tie with Scecina. In a three-way meet at Anderson against Madison Heights and Lawrence, the Rockets garnered a first place. The reserve golfers distinguished themselves with a 12-0 win over Attucks' varsity. Shortly after, the Ripple varsity received a forfeit from little Chatard and overwhelmed Arlington Speedway, and Sacred Heart.

On May 1, the linksters brought home the city crown a good five strokes under the nearest opponent. Lee again led the team and took the highly-coveted medalist honors with a brilliant 35.

Nosed out of a match for the state finals, the Rockets came within one stroke of an avenging Manual team in the state sectionals.

Lining up a two-iron shot, Sam Taylor, number two man for the linksters, concentrates on a long fairway drive.

Courtmen capture second straight title;

Sidelined early in the season with a broken ankle, courtman Stan Cleveland unfolds a fast moving return.

Showing its strength once again, Coach Robert Hougham's 1964 varsity tennis team won Ripple's second consecutive city tennis championship. Two singles championships and one doubles win proved sufficient to clinch the title. Marred only by a loss to Shortridge, the Rockets produced a 15-1 record.

Hope dimmed for the city tournament when returning city champion Stan Cleveland cracked his ankle in a previous match. Despite Stan's being in a cast and missing the tournament, the Rockets showed reserve strength, totaling a tournament high of 43 points, 5 over nearest-rival Tech's 38. Behind Tech was Shortridge, 29; Manual, 19; Wood, 16; Sacred Heart, 11; and Howe, 9.

Dave Schumacher and Don Berns reigned as individual champions. Schumacher, competing as number three man, defeated Tech's Steve Belding 6-0 and 6-2. Berns captured the number two position by edging Shortridge's Tom Griest 7-5 and 8-6.

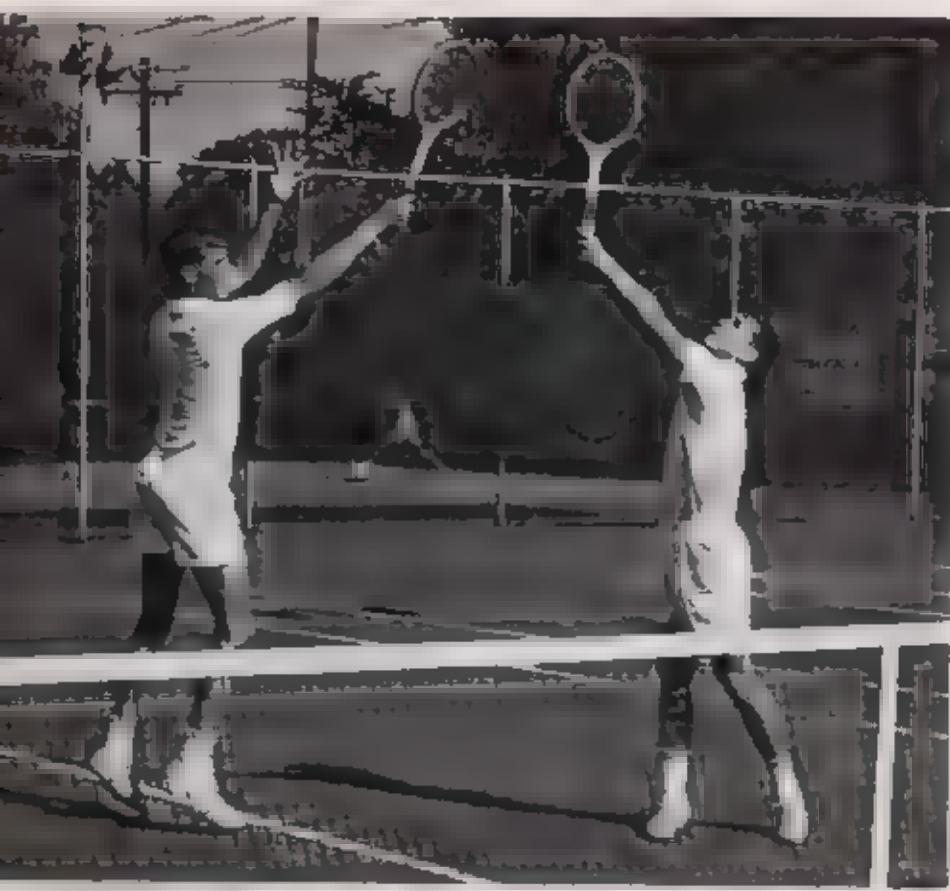

Don Cleveland teamed with Berns to defeat a Tech squad by identical 6-2 scores for the number two doubles championship. The number one doubles team of Schumacher and Roger Chaffin were earlier defeated by Dick Mays and Phil Moore of Wood. In singles competition Don Cleveland was upset by Art Beck of Shortridge, and Chaffin was eliminated by Bill Cooke of Howe in the fifth division.

4-3 victory over Peru. This win broke Peru's 75-game winning streak which had lasted over a six-year period. Another "first" for the racketmen was the participation in the Bishop Memorial Tournament at Culver, Indiana. Competing against teams from all over the state, the Rockets finished second behind Peru. It was in this tournament that Stan Cleveland suffered his injury while playing Peru's top-rated Mike Eikenberry in the finals. Schumacher reached the semi-finals of the tournament where he was defeated by Eikenberry. The teams of Berns and Don Cleveland gained points for the Rockets by defeating a Lafayette Jefferson team. They were later beaten by a team from Fort Wayne South.

In other competition, the racketmen downed such teams as Cathedral, Scecina, Tech, and Washington, compiling an 11-1 city record. The Rockets also gained victories over Anderson, Attucks, and Arlington. County foes Ben Davis and North Central were also victims. Outstanding achievements of the year included two shutouts against Northwest and Wood.

Stan Cleveland was honored at the end of the year with the Edgar Diederich Award presented to the outstanding boy in his sport or sports.

Broad Ripple returns with three lettermen. Berns, Schumacher, and Don Cleveland will be playing their final year of varsity tennis.

by Richard Farlow

Hampered by numerous injuries and inexperience, the '64 Rocket tracksters finished the season with a mediocre 1-3 dual meet record.

Seven Rocket cindermen traveled to Bloomington on March 28 for the Hossier Relays, but the team did not have its dual meet opener until April 10 at Howe. On their home track, the strong Hornets scored heavily and defeated Ripple by a 102-7 margin. Leading the Rocket effort, Mark Axelrod earned a red ribbon for a second in the quarter mile.

On April 17, the Rockets traveled to Seymour to participate in the Seymour Relays for the first time. Three Ripple tracksters brought home medals. Running against stiff competition, Dick Buya won a bronze medal, finishing third in a fast 100-yard dash. Axelrod won a silver medal for his second in the quarter mile. Mike Perry set a 5'10" meet record in the high jump, winning the first-place gold medal for the Broad Ripple tracksters.

Competing against some of the state's best runners, the Rockets finished behind Ben Davis, Shortridge, and Northwest in the 16th annual Broad Ripple Invitational track meet on April 23.

Next, the cindermen ran into a tiring mid-week series of meets, facing Manual on Tuesday, April 28, running in the City Meet the next day, and then battling Pike on Thursday in a make-up of the re-scheduled season opener. Manual's powerful Redskins invaded the Rocket's track first and carried home a 94-15 scalp. Ken Castor and Bill Simon finished behind city champ Bill Jones, taking second and third in the low and high hurdles respectively. Buya and Max Inglert grabbed second and third ribbons in the 220-yard dash. The next day, the Rockets journeyed to Tech for the City Meet, but Perry was the lone qualifier.

On April 30, the Rockets gained their only '64 victory, running over Pike's Red Devils 69-40. Perry, Simon, and Kent Heaton swept the high hurdles, grabbing the top three spots. Jim Cooney scored an easy victory in the mile, followed by Chris Smith. Chris Woolling won a red ribbon for his second place finish in the 440, and Buya took both the 220 and 100-yard dashes. Teammate Mike Wood backed up Buya's victories with solid second and third place finishes in the same events. Ron McClure edged out Steve Fleming in the 880, and Steve Pratt put the icing on the victory cake by winning the pole vault for Ripple.

Intramurals intensify competitive spirit

by Bob Danielson

Two-second huddles on the "dust bowl" practice field, clouting duck pins with 16 pounds of round rubber, and plowing through competitive mobs for a mid-winter night's rebound contributed to Broad Ripple's well-rounded intramural program, under the supervision of Mr. Frank Baird.

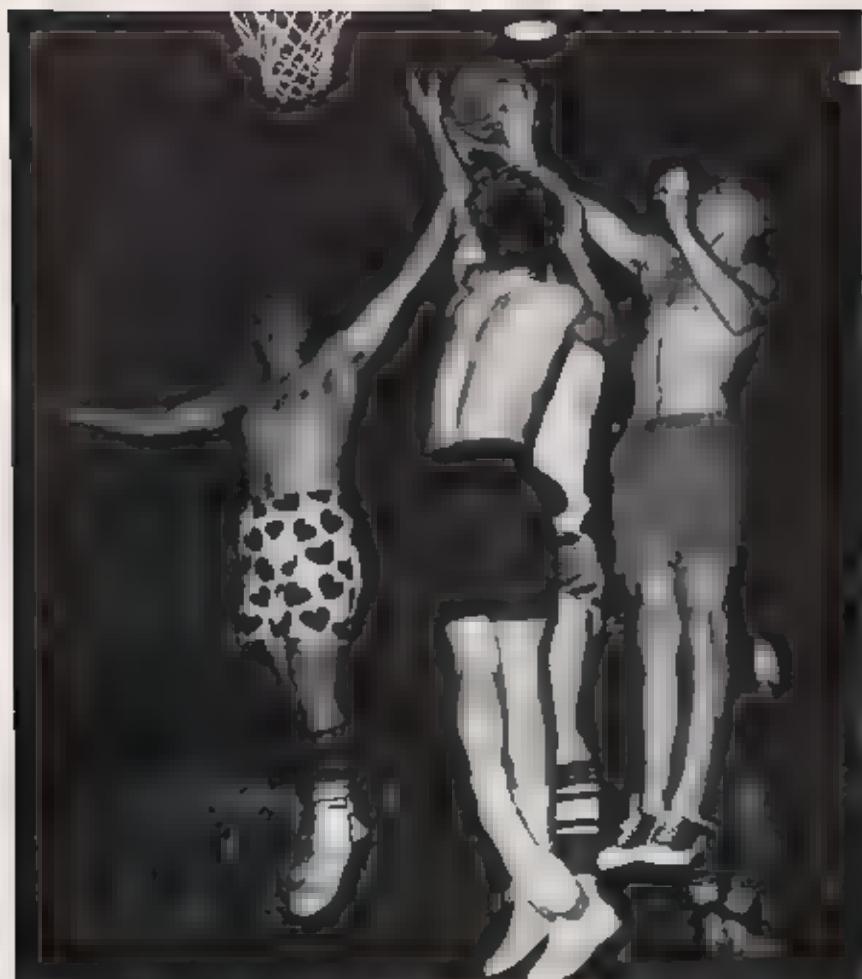

As football opened the fall activities, Jim Williamson's Bears and Don Cleveland's Colts dominated play. At mid-season, the Colts remained undefeated at 5-0, while the Bears and the Giants had identical 3-1 marks. However, the Bears captured the league championship with a final game romp over the Colts, 41-30, avenging a previous 35-29 loss.

Highly competitive tennis matches rounded out the fall intramural schedule. In the early-October league tourney, more than 20 boys competed in singles matches for the Ripple racket crown. Following the preliminary matches, four boys advanced to the semi-finals. Jim Houghton out-swatted Steve Morris 6-3 and 7-5 in the finals match to earn the coveted tennis championship title.

Stealing the American League basketball championship from under the noses of Dave Scott's 9-0 Giants, Steve Cremeans' 8-1 Pirates reversed an earlier season loss to the Giants in the league's title game. The Giants had smashed the Pirates, 64-48, in season play, but they lost the championship in a tight rematch at the end of the season. The Giants jumped to an early 7-3 lead, but slipped behind as the hot-shooting Pirates hit seven straight points and led throughout the remainder of the first three quarters. In a spirited fourth-quarter rally, the Giants pulled ahead, and the thrilling see-saw battle ended only in the closing seconds of the game as Jim Leamon sank two free throws to clinch the Pirates' victory. The Vikings, captained by Mackey Kertis, captured the frosh league title in the intramural competition.

Captained by Jeff Sander, the Winners team took the IM bowling crown with a 16-6 record. Balanced scoring by team members Bob Danielson, Rob Davis, and Steve Dryden supported the first place team in their victory. John Kaellner's Pinspotters finished in the runner up spot, posting a 14½-7½ slate. Bill Gerlib captured the league high average honors while Ernie Reeve and Phil Comer posted high game scores. Tom Deaton and Randy Parr boasted handicap crowns, and Ray Harris was honored as the most improved bowler of the league.

Under the supervision of Miss Barbara Vargo and Miss K. Max Moreillon, the Girls' Athletic Association and Physical Education Department sponsored several forms of girls' intra-scholastic competition. Tennis, bowling, and archery formed the autumn agenda, and table tennis, basketball, volleyball, and tumbling activities rounded out the year's schedule.

Friendships

A friend can be a smile in the hallway, an acquaintance in second hour class, a teacher's help after school, or the sympathetic ear of a good pal. In these and many other facets, friendship is an essential part of Ripplife, for the basic purposes of education cannot be accomplished without the learning, fun, and understanding of friends.

Principal J. Fred Murphy enjoys holiday refreshments with Vice-Principals Harold Harding and Roger Riley at the Christmas tea sponsored by the Home Economics Department.

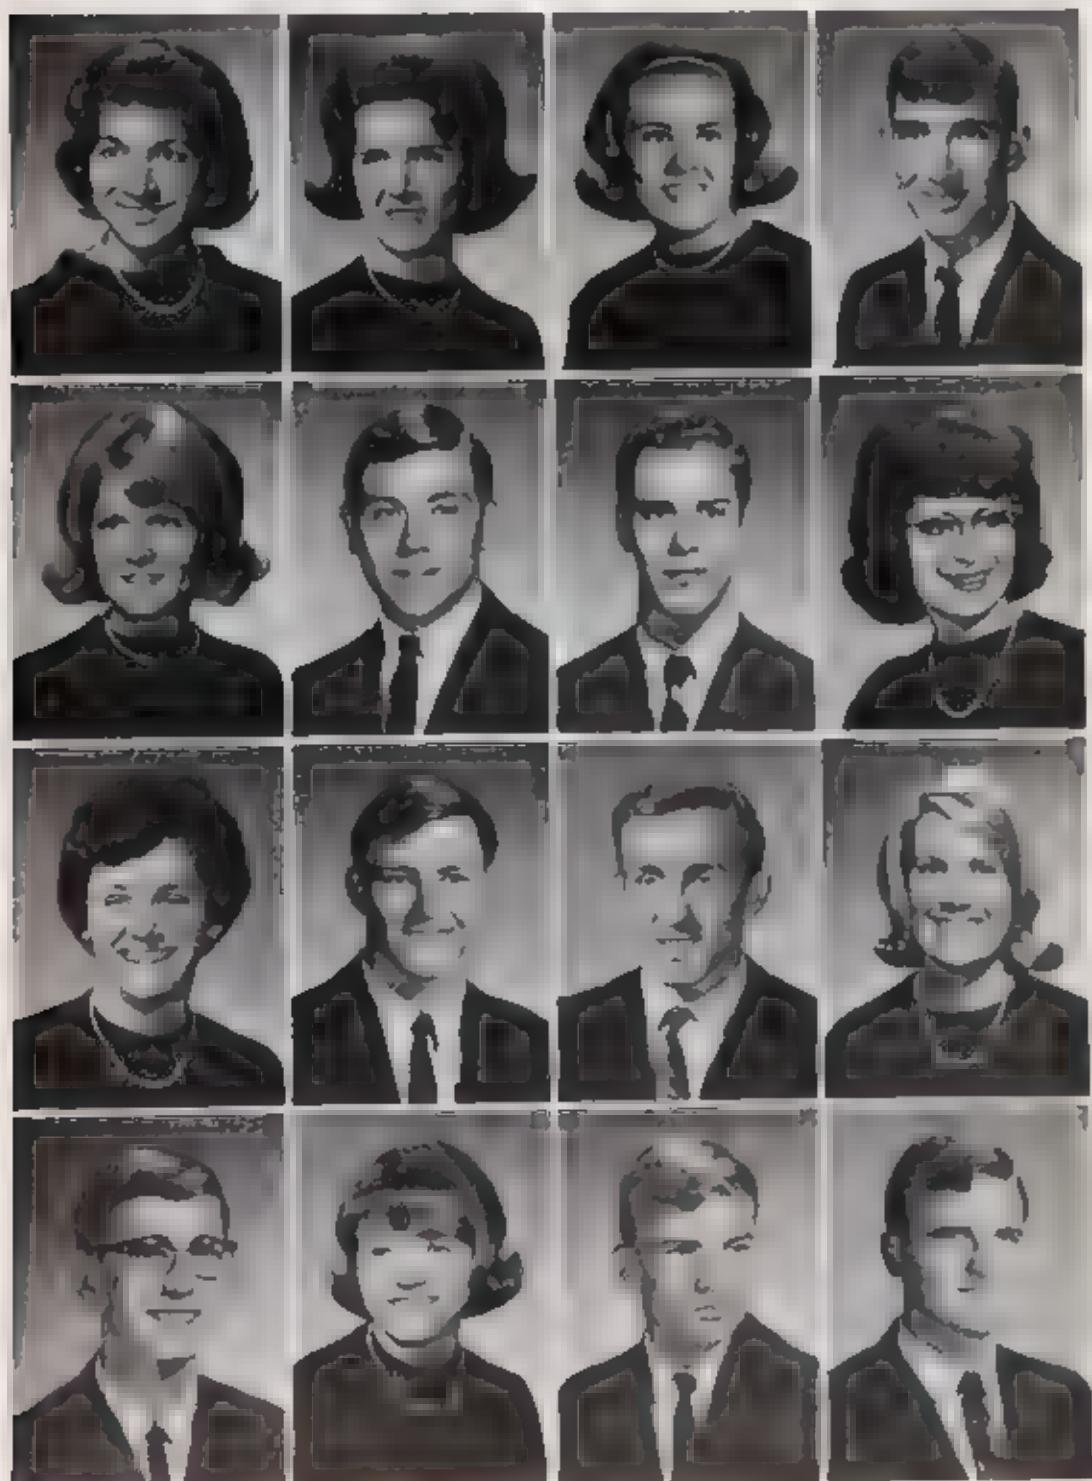

Beginning the year's activities. Senior Class officers Tom Olvey, Barbara Gavin, Sandy Laramore, and Fred Tucker organize committees for school Christmas decorations, the Senior Mothers' Tea, and graduation ceremonies.

Four years ago, 395 somewhat apprehensive but highly enthusiastic teenagers suddenly became "freshmen" in the strange labyrinth of Broad Ripple. They soon became accustomed to their new life and joined their "peers" in cheering the football team to a runner-up city championship. As sophomores these Riplites again generated an energetic spirit, boosting a fired-up Rocket basketball team to the final game of the Semi-state. Upperclassmen at last, they elected Marty Zohn, Kay Jones, Don Buddenbaum and Polly Colvin as class officers and feverishly worked to create a misty sea-sprayed atmosphere about a 25-foot lighthouse at their prom "Harbor Lights." Striving to make their final year the best, the class of '65 whirled through a memorable senior year and ended their four too short years of Ripplife at graduation ceremonies.

Advertising

Providing patronage, educational facilities, and future leadership for the Ripple-Glendale community, Broad Ripple High School is an integral part of this surrounding locality. Conversely, because Ripple is the area's chief public high school, the community is an important part of Ripplife in shopping, public relations, athletic support, local services, and advertising.

(left) Magnified to gigantic proportions, metallic penguins frame a group of Ripples on Glendale's mall. (right) Carhop Steve Savage earns money while benefiting a local advertiser in a part-time job at a near-by drive-in.

Picking up the pieces . . .

Following nearly one full year of organizing and fulfilling plans for the 1965 Riparian Yearbook, the staff felt both relieved and happy to pick up the remaining pieces of the mosaic and mail the last shipment of copy, layouts, and pictures to the printer. Collecting torn-out hair, sleepy yawns, last-minute copy revisions, and uncropped pictures to meet one last, frantic deadline, the four editors realize how very much gratitude they owe the staff, their sponsors, and their publishers.

Capturing a true mosaic of Ripple life between the covers of this Riparian Yearbook would not have been possible without the guidance, understanding, and professional knowledge of Mr. Dick Kennard, yearbook representative from Newsfoto Publishing Company, San Angelo, Texas, who introduced the new type of offset printing first used at Broad Ripple in this year's book. Nor could the mosaic have been so effective without the patience and devotion of Mr. Max Galloway, Indianapolis photographer, who returned to Ripple many times for yearbook assignments and generously offered special services when the staff found itself caught up in a deadline. Finally, sincere thanks go to Publications Advisers Mrs. Ruth Marie Griggs and Miss Fran Lindley, who were the reminders the staff needed when fun seemed more important than work and the understanding friends they appreciated when deadlines and school work seemed overpowering.

(Having a sigh of relief), yearbook editors Cindy New, Linda Scott, Barbara Gavin, and Susie Frakes mail the last shipment of copy and pictures to Newsfoto Publishing Company in San Angelo, Texas.
